COOKING SCHOOL IS SET FOR TODAY

Sally Saver Will Conduct Calhoun Class.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. CALHOUN, Ga., March 14. — Sally Saver, foods editor of The Constitution, will be in Calhoun at 2 o'clock tomorrow at the Woman's Club to conduct an informal cooking class, a lecture-demonstration on her easy, economical methods of food preparation.

Miss Saver's school, sponsored by The Constitution and the Women's Auxiliary of the Calhoun Methodist church, will give readers an opportunity to meet Miss Saver and to discuss their food problems with her personally.

Her menu will include St. Patrick's Day dishes, Easter dishes, and light, colorful springtime meals. Mrs. John Littlefield, of Calhoun, is in charge of arrangements.

'TEACHERS' PAYER' IS JOHN I. ALLMAN

Makes Out Schools' Allotments and Handles Their Budgets.

John I. Allman, supervisor of school administration for the State Department of Education and newly elected president of the G. E. A., is the man "who pays the teachers."

To be more exact, he makes out the teacher allotments for the various state-supported schools, handles their budgets, makes the requisitions on the state treasury for money with which to pay the teachers.

Allman is one of the few educators in this state ever to hold jobs as city and county school superintendent at the same time. The 64-year-old educator was superintendent of Toccoa city schools and Stephens county schools for approximately 10 years.

A native of Cumberland, Tenn., he attended Peabody College for Teachers, got his B. S. degree in education at Mercer University and M. A. at Teachers' College, Columbia University.

Two phases of education in which he is intensely interested are promoting educational opportunity for rural children, and adult illiteracy elimination. He also has worked for safer and more economical transportation of school children.

His experience includes summer school instruction at Mercer, the Stephens county positions, and superintendent of Stewart county, Tennessee, schools, superintendent of schools at Hartwell and Dalton, Ga., and assistant education director of the Georgia WPA.

sent the policy committee's report in the absence of Chairman Allman, who was detailed by illness at his Atlanta home and was not present for his unanimous election as president to succeed Mark A. Smith, of Thomaston. Assuming he did not favor diverting highway funds for educational purposes, Governor Rivers told school officials here that Georgia legislators should either repeal the state's school program or make adequate provision for its operation.

Speaking today also were Attorney General Ellis Arnall and State School Superintendent M. D. Collins.

Rivers declared that in diverting road funds for school operation this year he made use of the only available means of keeping the schools open.

Attorney General Arnall told the educators "the hand-to-mouth school fiscal policy now in use should be completely eliminated and the actual guaranteed amount available to schools should be known in advance from the beginning of each school term."

The law department head characterized as erroneous any idea that highway and school finances "are of necessity opposed to each other," saying both were essential "and the champions of each should join hands to bring about a needed readjustment of state finances."

BEAUTY WINNER WINS ART CONTEST

Margie Mincey Gets Top Honor in High Museum Competition.

Most beauty winners strive for Atlantic City, the movies, or Broadway, but Margie Mincey, who won the beauty contest in high school in Waynesboro, Ga., three years ago, has devoted her time and talent to art, and yesterday won another contest, this time the portrait competition for the seniors at the High Museum of Art school.

A pretty brunette, Miss Mincey won the first prize for her portrait of Herbert E. Choate, which she painted in about three days. All members of the senior class entered the competition, and were allowed the same time to complete their work. Pat Benman won second place, and Pauline Stauerman won honorable mention.

Miss Mincey is the 20-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Mincey, of Waynesboro. Her work was chosen the best Choate portrait by the school authorities. Mr. Choate, who is a member of the Atlanta Art Association, was invited to pose for the class.

GIRL'S DEATH LAID TO JEALOUS MATE

MIAMI, Fla., March 14. — (P) — State Investigator L. R. Mills said tonight Gertrude Pickett, 25-year-old night club entertainer, was murdered by her jealous husband, who then shot himself to death. Mills said a police theory of murder and suicide was confirmed by a woman who gave her name as Helen Weiss, also an entertainer at the night club where Mrs. Pickett was employed. Mrs. Pickett, two bullets in her head, was found dead in her trailer bunk this morning.

GARDEN AUTHORITY TO DISCUSS PATHS

Mrs. Crown To Lecture at Constitution's School,
March 26-28.

Spring planters will plan their gardens, and garden walks and paths must be well constructed and properly placed. Hear Mrs. Fletcher Pearson Crown, an Atlanta who not only is a garden expert, but knows what plants are best suited to this region, at The Constitution's Annual Garden School, March 26-28.

The school will be held at 10 o'clock each morning at the Atlanta Women's Club. Mrs. Crown will include a detailed lecture on planning garden paths that beautify your garden instead of marring it.

The Constitution is offering daily prizes of $15 to the garden club that has the largest proportional attendance at the school. There is also a prize of $25 for the club that shows the largest total registration at the close of the school. And friends may register for a club.

Summer flowering bulbs, annuals, and flower show displays will be discussed by Mrs. Crown, along with all problems of architecture that may be remedied by placing shrubs and plants.

LITHONIA DISTRICT REPORTS BEATINGS

Interchange of Robed Personnel With East Point Rumored.

Fulton county hasn't any monopoly of floggings.

Reports from the Lithonia district of Rockdale county yesterday told of several beatings within the last year and frequent parades by a robed organization.

A Negro, Sam Colbert, described by several prominent citizens as having an excellent reputation among white people, was beaten about two months ago, almost immediately after a parade, and given three days in which to leave town. He departed.

At least one white man and three or four other Negroes have been beaten within the year, it was declared. Report was current that there was an interchange of personnel between the East Point and Lithonia organizations to safeguard identities.

Conclave of Newly United Churches Recesses.

Those granted preaching licenses are Benjamin Elmar Nisewonger, Miley McKinley Clevenger, Plemon Folds and Floyd Mack Davis. The conference, representing 57 churches in the Atlanta area, was attended by 225 ministers and lay delegates. The next session will feature individual reports from each church in the district and a sermon by Dr. W. P. King, of Nashville.

"Your question of how and when must be suggested by the officers of the law and my action must be in co-operation with them, as I am not a trained officer of the law and know nothing about such procedure."

A regular session of the grand jury will be held today, and it was believed testimony adduced at the coroner's inquest might be made the basis of final action.

Coroner Paul Donehoo, expressing satisfaction with the results of his searching inquiry, said a complete copy of the testimony would be furnished the solicitor general's office, and would be available to Sheriff Aldredge.

Listening to Words Which Grant Him Liberty

Robert F. Turnipseed, disbarred Atlanta attorney who had served nearly five months of a 12-month sentence imposed for alleged participation in a damage suit racket, yesterday received a conditional pardon from Governor Rivers. Here, center, he hears read the pardon held by Chief Jailor A. B. Foster of Fulton Tower, to whom he voluntarily surrendered last October. Pat Avery, attorney who represented Turnipseed before the Governor, looks on from the right.

ALBANIAN IS ELECTED POLICE CHIEF'S HEAD

ELBERTON, Ga., March 14.—(AP)—Albany's Jim Moore was elected today to the presidency of the Georgia Association of Police Chiefs.

Chief C. W. Johnson, of Elberton, was named vice president, and E. W. Wood, of Athens, secretary and treasurer.

The chiefs decided to hold two meetings a year, one in April and one in September. The next fall meeting was awarded to Valdosta and the spring session to Albany.

ROBERT TURNIPSEED IS FREED BY PARDON

Rivers Conditionally Releases Attorney Convicted in Fake Damage Racket.

For the second time in his life, Robert F. Turnipseed—the man who came back voluntarily to serve out a jail sentence—walked out of Fulton Tower; but this time he was free under a pardon from Governor Rivers.

The first time he left the county jail was in 1935, when he jumped a $1,000 bond posted after he had appealed a 12-month sentence on charges of cheating and swindling, engaging in the fake damage claims racket. After four years of "freedom," he gave himself up on October 3.

Yesterday the former Atlanta attorney laughed and talked easily about the pardon he had been seeking since he returned to the custody of the law. "I'm mighty glad to be out," he said. "I appreciate the governor's act, and I won't disappoint him in my future behavior."

For the first time, the disbarred attorney revealed where he had been during the four years he was at large. "I worked in Chicago and Wisconsin for a while," he said, "doing anything I could. I even came back to Georgia a couple of times, but nobody recognized me."

Governor Rivers granted the clemency upon the recommendation of a number of prominent Atlanta attorneys, including Walter McElreath, who represented several companies against which Turnipseed prosecuted damage claims, allegedly false. Labor leaders also urged the former railroad employee's freedom, Governor Rivers said.

Allies Make $1,427,000 Loan To American Munitions Maker

$100,000,000 May Be Spent on Powder, Shells, Plants.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—(P) A $1,427,000 British-French loan to expand American powder-manufacturing facilities showed today that the Allies are looking to this country for heavy supplies of explosives.

Authoritative sources reported that Allied purchasing missions have indicated the intention of expending well beyond $100,000,000 in the United States for powder and shells and expanded plants to produce these munitions.

The $1,427,000 loan was made to the Atlas Powder Company, Wilmington, Del., to finance construction of plants to turn out TNT, high explosive used in shells. The fact that it had been made was revealed in a report to the SEC.

It was viewed by munitions experts familiar with the negotiations as only an initial move toward assuring ample reserves for the British and French armies in the event heavy fighting drains their existing stores.

One projected deal, known to be in process of negotiation, involves construction of a $25,000,000 plant to turn out an initial $25,000,000 powder order for France.

Several manufacturers who have been approached with prospective orders have been quietly looking for sites for new plants. Sites have been inspected in southern Indiana, western Tennessee and elsewhere, and in some instances land options have been taken, it is understood.

The Atlas Company already has undertaken to double the capacity of its plant in Missouri, at a cost of about $750,000, informed sources said, and is reported to be planning a further similar expansion.

Because American capacity to produce munitions has declined radically since the World War, the prospective orders for explosives have been welcomed by army officials anxious to see this country's manufacturing facilities increased.

BLUE MOLD IS FOUND ON TOBACCO AT TIFTON

TIFTON, Ga., March 14.—(P)—The first appearance of blue mold in south Georgia this year was reported today by tobacco experts of the coastal plain experiment station.

The mold, later than usual due to unusually cold weather, was found in a second-year bed at Tifton. Station authorities advised growers to begin spraying beds immediately. The spray should be applied twice weekly, regardless of weather conditions, they said.

BARRING OF ALLIES EXPLAINED BY OSLO

has begun. In economic, trade and foreign affairs we shall now have to work out a common policy. It is impossible to predict whether this will only be for the duration of the period of tension in the present World War in Europe, or if it will be lasting. But it can be asserted that the influence of the Scandinavian countries will grow in importance.

"The revised outlook has changed public opinion, and in turn has affected the government outlook. Today's announcement is the logical conclusion of this profound change."

In the meantime a new army was on the march tonight in saddened Finland—an army of 100,000 men, women and children forsaking their firesides in ceded territory to find strange homes within Finland's newly-shrunk frontiers.

By foot, in autos, wagons, and on trains they moved through the snow-clad country taking their pigs, horses and cattle with them. They carried what clothing and family heirlooms they could gather on short notice before their land is turned over to Russia.

Approximately 500,000 other persons are in refugee centers, having fled there for protection early in the war.

About 140,000 of them may return to their homes—what Russian broadcasts have left of them—but Finland must find new homes and new livelihoods some place in the rock-bound land for about 460,000.

Juho Koivisto, assistant minister of agriculture who is in charge of moving the people, said that no pressure had been brought to force families to leave the ceded areas, but that experience showed practically none of them wanted to live under Russian rule.

2,000 in Hanko.

Only 2,000 persons are remaining in Hanko, the south coast port leased to Russia for a naval base. Discussing the defensive alliance brought out that traditionally neutral Norway and Sweden have become distinctly conscious of possible further dangers as a result of the Finnish peace treaty.

Opposition is being voiced to any alliance or definite commitment binding Sweden and Norway to give Finland direct military aid, but some form of precautionary action generally is expected.

In both Sweden and Norway anxiety is felt that Finland might within a few months go the way of Czechoslovakia, bringing a potential Russian threat to the borders of the northern kingdoms.

With Finland's attitude clearcut regarding the desire for a pact, the burden of the decision appears to rest in Stockholm and Oslo, with a formal conference regarded probable in the near future.

Main Question.

The main question tonight seemed to be: Will the three countries simply ignore or can they circumvent article three of the Russian-Finnish peace treaty with its prohibition of alliances directed against either contracting party?

Reports that Sweden and Norway have agreed to quarantine Finland's security brought official statements that Oslo and Stockholm have so far done nothing more than agree to "discuss the possibilities" of an alliance.

Informed quarters pointed out that a three-power alliance would eliminate any difficulties in the path of future outside help to Finland.

ELECTRICIAN LAW IS HELD INVALID

Examination and License Provisions Ruled Out.

The Georgia supreme court yesterday ruled two provisions of an Atlanta ordinance affecting electrical workers invalid.

This ruling was made in the case of W. J. Sullivan, electrical contractor, against Dewey L. Johnson, superintendent of electrical affairs.

Sullivan sought a writ of mandamus to compel Johnson to issue him a permit to do specified electrical work in Atlanta. He claimed his application for permits had been denied because he had not stood an examination and secured a master electrician's license.

The trial judge of the Fulton county superior court held the ordinance valid and denied a mandamus absolute. The high court said this was an error.

MILITARY WILL JOIN IN ST. PATRICK MARCH

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 14.—(P)—Five bands, three military contingents, and detachments from two visiting United States destroyers will participate in the mile-long parade marking Savannah's annual observation of St. Patrick's day Saturday.

The observation was moved up a day because of Sunday's beginning of Holy Week. A solemn pontifical mass at St. Patrick's church by the Most Rev. Gerald P. O'Hara, bishop of Savannah-Atlanta, is to precede the parade. The grand marshal is Dr. J. Reid Broderick, of Savannah, president of the Catholic Laymen's Association of Georgia.

HOPKINS INSISTS CENSUS INCLUDE INCOME QUERIES

Provides, However, That Questions May Be Answered in Secrecy by Sealed Envelope.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—(P) Secretary of Commerce Hopkins insisted today that questions of income be included in the coming census, but in deference to congressional and other objections, provided that they might be answered in privacy.

"Under my instructions to the Census Bureau," he said, "persons enumerated will answer the income queries: (1) Directly to the enumerator, or if unwilling to do this, (2) by writing their answers on a blank for which no signature will be necessary, sealing the blank in a franked envelope and giving it to the enumerator to be mailed to the Census Bureau in Washington. Blank and envelope will be furnished by the enumerator."

The questions to which Hopkins referred are intended to ascertain the amount of the individual's income during the calendar year 1939, from wages, salaries and other sources.

Contending the inquiries were an invasion of individual privacy, Senator Tobey, Republican, New Hampshire, made an issue of the matter in the senate and several days ago obtained the senate commerce committee's approval of a resolution suggesting that the questions be deleted.

Leaders in Charge of Georgia Products Dinner

In an effort to advance Georgia prosperity, members of the Atlanta Woman's Club held a "Georgia Products Dinner" last night. In the picture are, left to right, Mrs. Howard Pattillo, Hamilton Ralls, Mrs. Fannie Mae Dabney, and Mrs. William G. McRae. The three women formed the committee which arranged the affair. Ralls, a former director of the State Bureau of Markets, was principal speaker.

"Both of these questions are among the most important on the entire schedule," Hopkins said today. "Without the answers to them we run into a blind spot when we discuss unemployment and mass purchasing power."

Ralls Urges Georgia Consumers To Aid Farmer by Using Ballot

Products Dinner Guests Hear Plea for Curb on Outsiders.

By YOLANDE GWIN.

Georgia consumers of farm products should use their voting power to demand legislation that would give farmers a chance for better prices, Hamilton Ralls, Hogansville farmer and former director of the State Bureau of Markets, urged last night in an address at the Atlanta Woman's Club annual Georgia products dinner.

"Farmers and dealers from other states can come in and sell and retail or wholesale without license or tax, or without the simple requirement that their products be packaged, branded and sold according to grade," Ralls said, "but our farmers and merchants do not have like privileges in any other state in the union."

H. M. Morris, of Athens, a representative of the Southern Chain Store Council, spoke on "How Customers May Help Distributors Co-operate With Georgia Agriculture."

Mrs. Calvin Shelverton, president of the Woman's Club, presided at the dinner, which was under the chairmanship of Mrs. William G. McRae, assisted by Mrs. Fannie Mae Dabney and Mrs. Howard Pattillo. Aims and purposes of the sponsorship by the club were outlined by Mrs. Dolly Lee Butler.

100,000 REFUGEES IN FINLAND FLEE

Families Give Up Old Homes to Russians in 'Peace' Areas.

By RALPH FORTE.

HELSINKI, March 14.—(UP)—In trains and trucks and horse-drawn sledges 100,000 old men and women, girls and boys traveled tonight out of the Finnish areas ceded to Russia by the peace pact of Wednesday.

At least four times as many have been made homeless by the war, either by cession of territory or by destructive aerial bombardments and shellfire.

Juho Koiisto, Finnish minister in charge of the evacuation, announced the beginning of the mass migration.

The evacuees had to leave homes, he said, "where in many cases for generations, even for centuries, they have developed traditions and affections."

Koiisto said that by the end of February a half million Finns had been evacuated from the cities and towns to safer points and that the evacuees thus now total 600,000 whom the state will continue to clothe, feed and shelter.

The evacuation was not compulsory but the minister said that "past experience has proven that none will want to remain behind."

Finland began a tedious return to normal life, looking to a Scandinavian defensive alliance to protect it against future invasions.

The Finnish parliament, still meeting secretly, was understood to have passed through first and second readings the treaty of peace with Russia. Foreign Minister Tanner said it probably would be ratified "within a few days."

RUSSIA PREPARES FOR FINNISH SOVIET

MOSCOW, March 15.—(Friday) (P)—The supreme Soviet of the U. S. S. R., Russia's parliament, was convened today for March 29, and many observers predicted one of the most important items on the agenda would be formation of a Soviet Socialist republic in the territory ceded by Finland under the new peace treaty.

DALADIER EXPLAINS ACTIONS TO SENATE

Vote on Premier's Policies Expected Today.

PARIS, March 14.—(P)—Premier Daladier spent three hours defending his war policies today before a secret senate session, while an insistent press demanded that the Allies "find a battlefield—and make war" against "all their enemies."

The premier called the secret session suddenly, to thrash out the whole question of British-French strategy after criticism of Allied inaction and growing clamor for an exposition of the western powers' role in the Finnish-Russian war.

RUSSIA PROMISES TO SPARE RUMANIA

Pledge Gives Nazis Powerful Weapon in Courtship Bucharest.

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER.

BERLIN, March 14.—(P)—Germany, anxious to avoid a southeastern battlefront and determined to strengthen her economic ties with the Balkan nations, has obtained from Soviet Russia a definite pledge to spare Rumania, come what may, an extremely well-informed, nonofficial informant told the Associated Press today.

The pledge may enable Nazi diplomats to wear Rumania away from the French-British Allies and steer her into a nonaggression pact with Russia.

There were unmistakable evidences that negotiations of some sort were in progress between Moscow and Bucharest. Rumanian commission of high army officers in Berlin, including a general.

Well-informed persons hint that something is in the wind, and one went so far as to say today the current week would "furnish political foundations for Germany's military victory."

Horowitz Surprises the Press, Talks About Small Daughter

By MOZELLE HORTON YOUNG.

Vladimir Horowitz, world-famed Russian pianist, surprised the press yesterday afternoon by turning out to be a "regular fellow" with a keen sense of humor, when the press was expecting to find a hard-to-interview artist, for advance stories had said that he was very shy of conversation, especially with newspaper people.

To the contrary, he is most cordial and friendly, very witty and entertaining, and has an excellent command of the English language.

Like the typical proud father, Horowitz talked of his 5½-year-old daughter, Sonia, with great enthusiasm. He says she is very musical and has just started piano lessons. (But he is not teaching her.)

The great orchestral conductor, Toscanini, is Horowitz' father-in-law, and Sonia is Toscanini's favorite grandchild. Horowitz says she is the only person who can "get away with murder" with the maestro.

Horowitz will get a welcomed rest before his piano concert at the city auditorium at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow night. With a piano in his hotel suite, he is practicing, walking a great deal, and relaxing generally.

RIVER CAMP FARM TO BE ABANDONED FOR ROAD PROJECT

Change Will Save County $25,000 to $35,000 a Year, Says Chastain, Who Urged the Move.

The Fulton county commission voted yesterday to abandon its four-year-old farm program at the River camp in a move to bolster the county's public work force for a huge road repair program.

More definite plans for the road repair project will be formulated by the commissioners at a special meeting at 9 o'clock this morning.

Commissioner Troy Chastain, chairman of the board's agricultural committee, recommended the change, because, he said, it is too expensive and the 140 prisoners at the camp can be used to a better advantage on road work.

He pointed out that this change will save the county between $25,000 and $35,000 a year. Operation of the farm at present costs about $80,000 a year. The board's action will not affect the dairy farm which is operated at the River camp.

Farm equipment used at the River camp will be transferred to the Negro boys' industrial farm for use there in an expanded farm

565,000 Killed And Wounded in Finn-Red War

COPENHAGEN, March 14.—(AP)—More than half a million men were killed or wounded in the 105 days of the Finnish-Russian war, foreign military observers estimate.

They placed the total at 565,000, divided as follows:

Russians—250,000 dead, 250,000 wounded.

Finnish—30,000 dead, 35,000 wounded.

The sub-zero cold accounted for the unusual high ratio of dead to wounded. Many soldiers incapacitated by their wounds died in the cold.

program. Chastain pointed out that the county already has farm land adjoining the institution.

Food stuffs raised at the River camp farm have been distributed to the other six camps, the jail, reformatory and almshouse.

In planning for an expansion of public works activities, Commissioner J. A. Ragsdale was authorized to purchase a rock crusher for south Fulton highways.

A. A. Clarke, superintendent of public works, told the commissioners that the county roads are in an awful shape.

TOKYO HINTS U. S. HAD HAND IN PEACE

Newspaper Says Reds Are Now Free To Put Pressure on Japan.

TOKYO, March 14.—(AP)—The Newspaper Asahi indicated today its belief that the United States ambassador to Warsaw, Laurence Steinhardt, had arranged the Russo-Finnish peace because the United States hoped, thereby, to free the U. S. S. R. for continued pressure on Japan.

"Despite Secretary Hull's denial, there are signs that the American ambassador mediated between Finland and the Soviets," said Asahi. "Why did the United States find it undesirable for the Red army to continue its hard struggle in Finland? Perhaps because it was thus incapable of turning its attention in other directions."

Vernacular newspapers agreed Russia's Far-Eastern policy was an important element in the peace, and predicted the Soviet union now would increase its opposition to the Japanese-sponsored regime in China of Wang Ching-Wei.

MAN GUARDS HIS HENS WITH LIFE, BUCKSHOT

KANSAS CITY, March 14.—(AP)—A load of buckshot goes with Elmer Reed's last two hens.

POSTAL HEADS COOL TO NAME CHANGING

WASHINGTON, March 14.—(AP)—The Postoffice Department demonstrated today that people cannot go about cavalierly changing the names of their towns.

The postmaster at Marshallville, Wis., wrote in recently. He asked that Marshallville be renamed North Pole. The Postoffice Department, which publishes a bulky directory listing town names, approved. Then it reconsidered and rescinded the approval.

"Because," an official explained, "there wasn't any good reason for the town to have its name changed."

SEAMAN IS LOST IN GULF OF MEXICO

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 14.—(AP)—Charles B. Fox, 55, seaman aboard the 35-foot fishing schooner Paloma, was lost overboard 55 miles northwest of Egmont key in the Gulf of Mexico late Tuesday night, according to reports brought in by Captain George Temple when the Paloma docked here last night.

Captain Temple said Fox apparently suffered a heart attack, falling into the water without making a sound. The sea was calm. A two-hour search failed to reveal his body, Temple added.

25 MEXICANS DIE IN TEXAS' WORST CROSSING CRASH

17 Injured; Bodies Are Scattered Along Railroad for 600 Yards; Flames Wrap Truck.

McALLEN, Texas, March 14.—(P)—The worst crossing crash in Texas history killed 25 Mexican laborers and injured 17 today.

A truck carrying the men to work in a vegetable field was struck squarely in the center by a Missouri Pacific passenger train six miles east of here.

Some of the victims were decapitated. Bodies were scattered along the track for 600 yards.

Wrapped in Flame.
The truck, its exploding gasoline tank wrapping it in flame, took fast to the engine's cowcatcher until the train was stopped.

One of the victims was caught under the engine's firebox and was burned. Witnesses said the clothes of other victims could be seen burning along the tracks. Mary Ann Wall, who works in an office near the scene, related: "When I looked, I tried to yell but I couldn't say a thing."

Calls Ambulances.
"Then my boss, Albert Jensen, ran out on the loading platform (of a citrus packing plant) and yelled back to me to call all the ambulances. I made the calls and when I looked out the window again bodies were piled up all along the tracks."

"It's the most horrible thing I have ever seen."

John Boyce and a companion, riding on the highway, saw the crash.

Boyce said: "I saw a big cloud of dust when the train reached the crossing. We rushed up and bodies were rolling around on the ground."

Espiridon Vera, 21, a survivor, was riding in the rear of the truck when he heard the train. He jumped just before the engine hit, and saw bodies thrown from the vehicle in every direction.

THREE DIE AS AUTO COLLIDES WITH TRAIN

PALMER, Tenn., March 14.—(P)—Three persons were killed today when their automobile collided with a freight train.

ADVERTISING STUDY IS HELD HARMLESS

Federal Trade Official Denies Proposed Inquiry Will Injure Business.

NEW YORK, March 14.—(P)—R. E. Freer, member of the Federal Trade Commission, assured members of the Advertising Club of New York today that advertising has nothing to fear from the commission's projected study of methods and costs of distribution. "The Federal Trade Commission is neither attempting, nor contemplates any attempt, either to discredit advertising, or to restrict advertising copy to such an extent that it will no longer be able to 'sell,'" Freer said in a luncheon address.

FRANKLIN RENAMES ORDINARY, SHERIFF

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. ROYSTON, Ga., March 14.—In the Democratic primary in Franklin county this week, Ordinary G. R. Harrison was re-elected over J. B. McEntire and Edgar McDuffie.

Tom Watson Andrews was renominated for sheriff over his opponent, T. H. Moss. Moody Whitlow defeated C. B. Aikens, present county school superintendent.

A runoff will be necessary to decide between C. H. Miller, present tax commissioner, and S. W. Risener, there having been five candidates for this office, none receiving a majority.

Clerk of Court Buford Ginn, County Treasurer J. W. Carroll and Surveyor C. N. Adams were unopposed.

Battle High Over N. Y. Harbor Ends in Death Dive in Plane

JERSEY CITY, N. J., March 14.—(P)—A dramatic battle half a mile above New York harbor between the pilot of a small training plane and his screaming passenger ended in the latter's death today when the uncontrolled ship plummeted into the bay near the Statue of Liberty.

At Jersey City medical center where he was treated for shock and submersion Pilot Joseph Rosemarin, 38, Brooklyn, told a rambling but graphic story while in New York harbor police and local officials pushed grappling operations where the plane had fallen to retrieve the missing man's body.

Not Definitely Known.
The man's identity was not definitely known, but Police Inspector James McNamara said he had received a telephone call from a 2,000 feet. Joe started to give him instructions.

Wants to See City.
"The other man said he would like to see New York. Joe said he had gone up only to give instructions but added 'I'll fly you over the edge of Brooklyn and you can see New York from there.'"

The story Rosemarin told was that of a man who tried to jump out of a plane and hit me over the head with pliers.

"I struck back and knocked him unconscious," Rosemarin said. "I was unable to control the plane and had to land."

The pilot, an instructor for the Standard Flying School at Floyd Bennett airport in Brooklyn, said the man went to the field this morning.

"He went to the airport and said that I had sent him," Mortimer Rabson, of New York City, an attorney friend of Rosemarin, said after talking with the pilot. "He said he wanted to take a lesson. They went up to a height of about

MARCH TAX YIELD SET AT 650 MILLION

Total Collections for Period Last Year Were Only $505,000,000.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—(P)—Treasury experts estimated unofficially today that income tax yield for March would total $650,000,000, compared with $505,000,000 last March. Tomorrow midnight is the annual deadline for filing returns and first-quarter payments, but officials expected no accurate count of the proceeds for another week.

Since most citizens wait until the last minute to file tax returns, early collections have been meager. In the first 12 days of the month, collections reported to the treasury amounted only to $81,475,743. This was a 50 per cent gain over the similar period last year, but was not regarded as a reliable indicator of the probable increase for the month as a whole.

Statistically, this year's estimated 8,000,000 individual and corporation returns will be of unusual interest because of various changes made last year in the income tax law.

Particularly, treasury officials want to see how much will be paid by state and local governmental employees, who have been made subject to the federal levy for the first time.

One person in ten in this country has some sort of speech defect or voice abnormality, says a medical specialist in speech disorders.

was screaming. Then the plane went down again."

This indicated, Rabson said, that the passenger had pushed forward his "stick" on the dual-control plane.

"Joe attempted to force the ship towards Governor's island because he didn't want it to drop in an inhabited area."

After hearing Rosemarin's graphic, tense story of the struggle in the skies and questioning Rabson, Police Inspector Henry Gaudier said tersely:

"It is simply a case of suicide."

Boat Hits Bridge, Island Residents Are Marooned

CORONADO BEACH, Fla., March 14.—(P)—This community of several hundred persons located on an island just off the mid-section of Florida's east coast was isolated today because a boat hit a bridge last night.

Two bridges connect the island with the mainland, both spanning the Halifax river, which forms a link with the intracoastal waterway from Jacksonville to Miami. One bridge was closed for ordinary repairs when the accident forced closing of the other one.

Bridge Tender Jack Sams said an oil barge being towed by a tug hit the structure, doing about $200 damage and making vehicular traffic impossible.

A state road department crew went to work and hoped to have repairs completed by tomorrow morning.

OLD BROWN HOME IS SOLD IN ALBANY

Site of Late Harold Hirsch's Wedding May Become Hospital.

ALBANY, Ga., March 14.—(P) One of Albany's historic homes and a former show place, vacant

20 years since the death of its builder, the late S. B. Brown, today passed into the hands of Dr. J. M. Burnett, prominent physician and surgeon, who is said to be planning to convert it into a private hospital, although he has not yet made a public statement as to his intentions.

L. B. Lillenthal, Inc., a corporation of the heirs of the late Harold Hirsch, of Atlanta, son-in-law of the house's original owner, sold the old place for "$1,000 and other valuable considerations," according to a deed recorded in the county clerk's office today.

Situated on the corner of Tift avenue and Jefferson street, on one of the most valuable lots in the city's residential district, the big, rambling, brick house, with its huge rooms and cupolas characteristic of another day, was the scene of the wedding of the late Harold Hirsch, of Atlanta, counsel for the Coca-Cola Company. His bride was the former Miss Marie Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Brown. Mr. Brown was then a leading business man of the city and the wedding was one of the most brilliant social events in Albany's history.

Wise girls learn to cook. Miss Lavinia Scott is trying out a salad and cooking oil which is new on the market. Made of peanut oil, it is odorless and tasteless, as far as peanut flavor is concerned, and promises to be an economic asset to the south, since peanuts are an important and easily grown southern crop.

Veal or Beef Shoulder Boned Makes Good Compact Roast

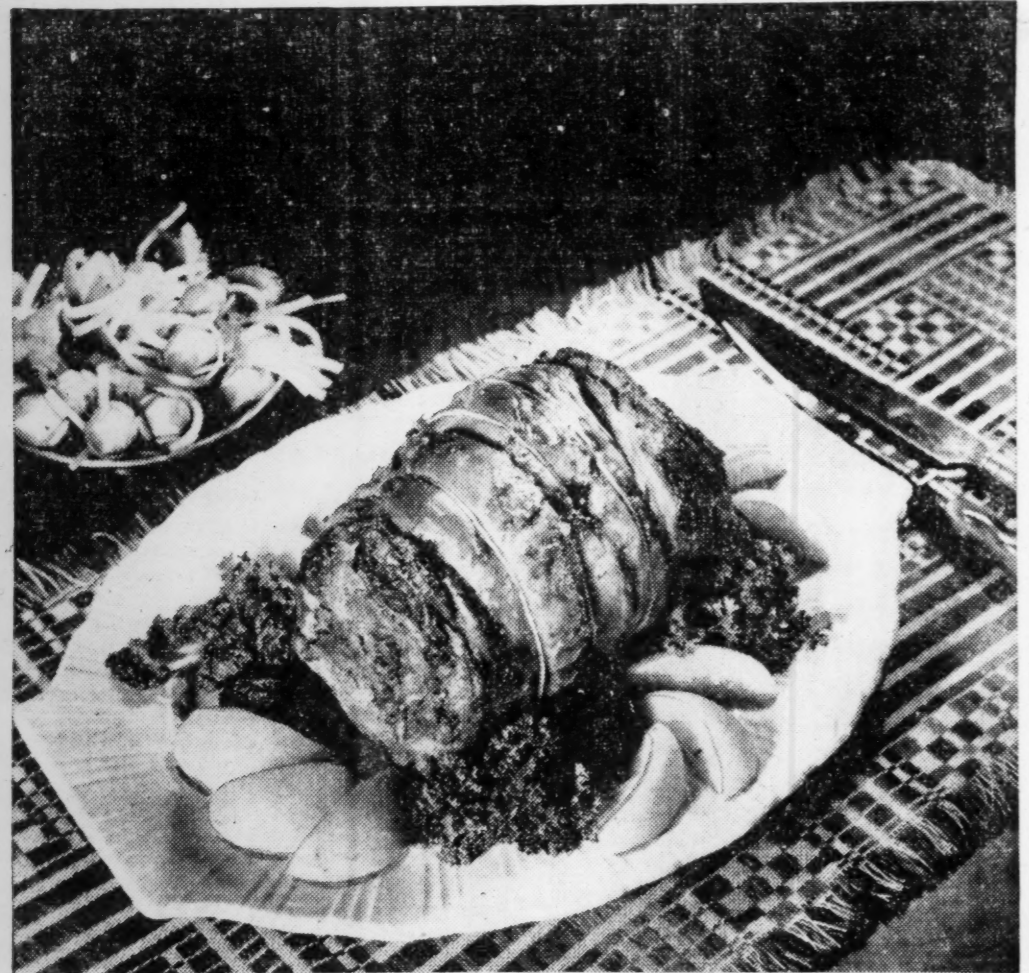

Veal or beef shoulder boned and rolled and roasted to an appetizing brown is a good choice for week-end meals. The only particular disadvantage to shoulder roasts, the difficulty of carving nice slices, is overcome in the boned, rolled roast. Shoulder cuts usually are less expensive than hind-quarter cuts and when cooked at a low temperature, with enough time allowed for thorough cooking, they make quite an attractive roast, desirable from both a nutritional and economic standpoint. If you are planning a bountiful feast with all the pretty frills for Easter Sunday, you will appreciate the economy of the shoulder roast, pictured herewith, for this Sunday dinner.

This roast can be cut in almost any size, but be sure to buy it large enough to have meat left for at least one other meal. The leftover meat can be made into a most satisfying loaf. Buying more than one meal at a time is true economy when selecting meats. For the roast shown today do this:

Roast Shoulder Roll.

Have the retailer bone and roll into a compact roll a roast of any size desired. Season the roast with salt and pepper and place on a rack in an open roasting pan. Several strips of bacon may be placed atop the shoulder roast, pictured herewith, if it seems too lean or if it is veal. Do not cover the roasting pan and do not add any water. Allow 35 to 40 minutes per pound for this roast. If you are using a meat thermometer it will register 170 degrees F. when meat is done. Garnish with broiled fruit or broiled potatoes.

Ideas From a Cook's Notebook

When you buy frying chickens and necessary food more palatable.

Lemons and limes may be kept from drying out if they are stored in a jar or crock and covered with cold water. Keep in a cool place. If a lemon or a lime has become rocklike it may be softened by putting it in a moderately warm oven, or in the warming oven when you have a roast or a cake baking.

When making a salad of stuffed tomatoes, save the pulp taken out for stewing. Put the pulp of two or three tomatoes in a small saucepan with one-half teaspoon sugar, a strip of green pepper and a stalk of celery diced, 1-4 cup cold water and 1-2 teaspoon salt. Boil gently for 10 minutes, then add a slice of dry bread broken in pieces and 1 tablespoon butter. Continue cooking slowly for three or four minutes longer. This makes a delicious vegetable with beef or veal, or may be served with lettuce sandwiches to make a wholesome lunch.

Attractive, savory food excites the flow of the digestive juices and therefore aids digestion. This is one of the reasons for emphasizing the need for care in the seasoning of food, and it is a good plan to keep on hand a good supply of the flavoring extracts, spices and condiments that are so useful for this purpose. In themselves these things have little or no food value, but they are invaluable for making wholesome

You're Asking Me

Question: Will you please give the basic recipe for soufflé?

Answer: There are soufflés which incorporate cheese, seafood or vegetables and those which are sweetened and used for desserts. All soufflés have one thing in common: milk and eggs. Here is basic recipe for cheese, vegetables, etc.

Soufflé.

1-4 cup butter
1-4 cup flour
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon paprika
1-2 teaspoon mustard
4 eggs separated

Melt butter and stir in flour; gradually add milk and cook about 5 minutes, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Add seasonings. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites, turn into well greased baking dish, place dish in pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven 350 degrees, until delicately browned and firm. About 50 to 60 minutes. (1 cup cheese, 1 cup asparagus, etc., may be used in this recipe.)

Do Off Your Hat To St. Patrick

Green should grow your menus with the approach of spring, and especially for St. Patrick's Day, which always arrives on March 17 and falls on Sunday this year. Green salads, using whatever salad greens are available, fruits and vegetables jellied in lime or green-colored gelatin, mint ice, pistachio nut cream, garnishes of watercress and parsley, and sauces of mint should be included in the menus right now to hasten the coming of spring, and to brighten the table during these days of waiting for bursting buds. But all Irish dishes aren't green and you can take your choice of the following to add to week-end menus:

Dumplings for Irish Stew.

- 1-2 cups flour
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 1 tablespoon baking powder
 - 1 egg
 - 1 tablespoon melted fat
 - 1-2 cup milk
 - 3-4 cup milk
- Sift flour, salt and baking powder together. Beat egg until light; add melted and cooled fat, bran and milk. Add liquid mixture to sifted dry ingredients and stir only until flour disappears. Drop by spoonfuls on top of hot Irish stew; cover tightly and let simmer for 20 minutes without removing cover. Serve hot.

Baked Minted Bananas.

- 1-2 cup mint jelly
- 6 firm bananas
- 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
- 1-2 cup shredded coconut
- 1-4 cup whipping cream, whipped and sweetened

Use all yellow bananas. Beat jelly until smooth. Peel bananas and brush well with butter. Place in greased baking pan and spread with jelly. Bake in moderate oven 375 degrees for 10 minutes. Sprinkle bananas with coconut and continue baking 5 to 8 minutes longer or until bananas are tender and coconut browned. Serve hot with garnish of whipped cream. Makes 6 servings.

Spinach Soup O'Malley.

- 1-2 cup finely chopped onions
- 4 tablespoons bacon fat
- 2 tablespoons flour

- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1-8 teaspoon pepper
- 2 cups milk, scalded
- 2-3 cup finely chopped cooked spinach
- 1 large pimiento, chopped
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1-3 cup chopped sweet pickles
- 2-3 cup stale bread cubes

Slowly saute onions in 2 tablespoons of the fat until slightly yellow. Stir in flour, salt and pepper. Add 1 cup of the milk and cook until thickened and smooth, stirring constantly. Add to remaining milk in top of double boiler; add spinach, pimiento and Worcestershire sauce and reheat. Add pickles and serve immediately with bread cubes which have been sauted in remaining fat until browned. Serves 6, and makes a hearty supper or luncheon dish.

Here's an idea for an all-in-one-pan supper dish. Try it.

A Southern Supper.

- 1 pound pork sausage, links each cut in half
 - 1 large onion, peeled and sliced
 - 1 cup uncooked white rice
 - 3-4 cups tomatoes (canned)
 - 1 cup water
 - 1 cup diced celery
 - 2 teaspoons salt
- Pan fry the pork sausage for 10 minutes. Remove from pan and pour off all fat except 2 tablespoons. Add onion and rice to the fat and cook until golden brown. Add sausage and remaining ingredients and bring to boiling point. Cover, reduce heat and simmer for 30 to 40 minutes. Serves 6.

Braised Celery.

Wash, scrape and cut celery in 3-inch pieces. Dry thoroughly. Fry or saute slowly in butter or margarine until browned. Add a few tablespoons hot water or stock to the liquid in the pan, season and pour over celery.

Corn pudding makes an excellent vegetable to serve with chicken and it may be baked in the oven while the chicken is roasting. Allow 40 to 50 minutes for cooking corn pudding, which should be placed in a pan of hot water to keep it from cooking too fast.

Hot Cross Buns For Tradition

Special days and seasons offer opportunity to impress upon the family, mainly the children, the idea behind the celebration. There is no pleasanter way of doing it than to keep the holidays with foods characteristic of the season. The table talk, too, easily and profitably can run along the same line, giving information to younger ones and making memorable the occasion no matter how simple the observance, in itself may be.

Take, for instance, the traditional serving of hot cross buns during Holy Week, particularly on Good Friday. In countries where dominant churches place emphasis upon the observance of Lent, hot cross buns are sold on the streets and in shops in much the same manner that holly and mistletoe are sold on our streets at Christmas-time. They are quite as much a part of the Good Friday observance as the Good Friday services in the churches. An old English nursery rhyme runs thus, referring to the street vendor's cry: "One a penny, two a penny, hot cross buns!"

Hot cross buns are simple yeast-raised buns, slightly sweetened and spiced. The top of each bun is brushed with egg white to give a little glaze and a cross is outlined with a sugar and water frosting. This cross gives the bun its name. Here is the way to make Hot Cross Buns.

- 1 compressed yeast cake
 - 1 cup milk
 - 1 tablespoon sugar
 - 3-4 cups flour (about)
 - 1-2 teaspoon salt
 - 1 teaspoon mixed ground spices
 - 4 tablespoons shortening
 - 1-3 cup sugar
 - 1 egg
 - 1-2 cup raisins or currants
- Scald the milk, then cool it to lukewarm. Add yeast and the 1 tablespoon sugar, allowing yeast to dissolve in milk. Add 1-2 cups flour, beating it well in, cover and set aside for about an hour, or until light. Cream the shortening and sugar until light and creamy, and the egg and raisins. Add this mixture to the first mixture, together with the rest of the flour, salt and spices. Knead thoroughly and set in a warm place to rise until dough has doubled in bulk, approximately 2 hours. Break off small pieces of dough and lightly knead them into flattened, round buns. Place on oiled sheet and let them rise once more. Brush each with beaten egg, and press each bun with the back of a knife to form and indent cross. Bake 15 to 20 minutes and fill indented cross with a sugar and water frosting.

food parade THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION Edited by SALLY SAVER

ATLANTA, GA., FRIDAY MORNING, MARCH 15, 1940.

Macaroni Is Nutritious Food

Successful cookery, someone wisely said, begins at the grocery. This is true in many respects, and never truer than when applied to the selection of the basic foodstuffs. Successful cookery implies not only that appetites are whetted and satisfied but that the fullest possible health protection be assured through wholesome and suitable diets. This means, of course, that in buying even the staple foods care must be used to get the best value in food and taste for the money to be spent.

Macaroni, and other members of the macaroni family, namely spaghetti and noodles, are considered by most housekeepers staple items for the pantry shelf. However, it is doubtful whether the majority of good shoppers realize the food value of high-grade macaroni products or that there are important differences in these products. The products made from better grades of cereals contain more food value ounce for ounce, therefore are worth the slightly higher price which is asked for them. Good macaroni contains something besides its energy-giving starch; it has some protein value as well. Good macaroni has as high as 12 per cent protein.

Protein is the muscle and tissue repairing element in foods. Try the appealing macaroni dish pictured today:

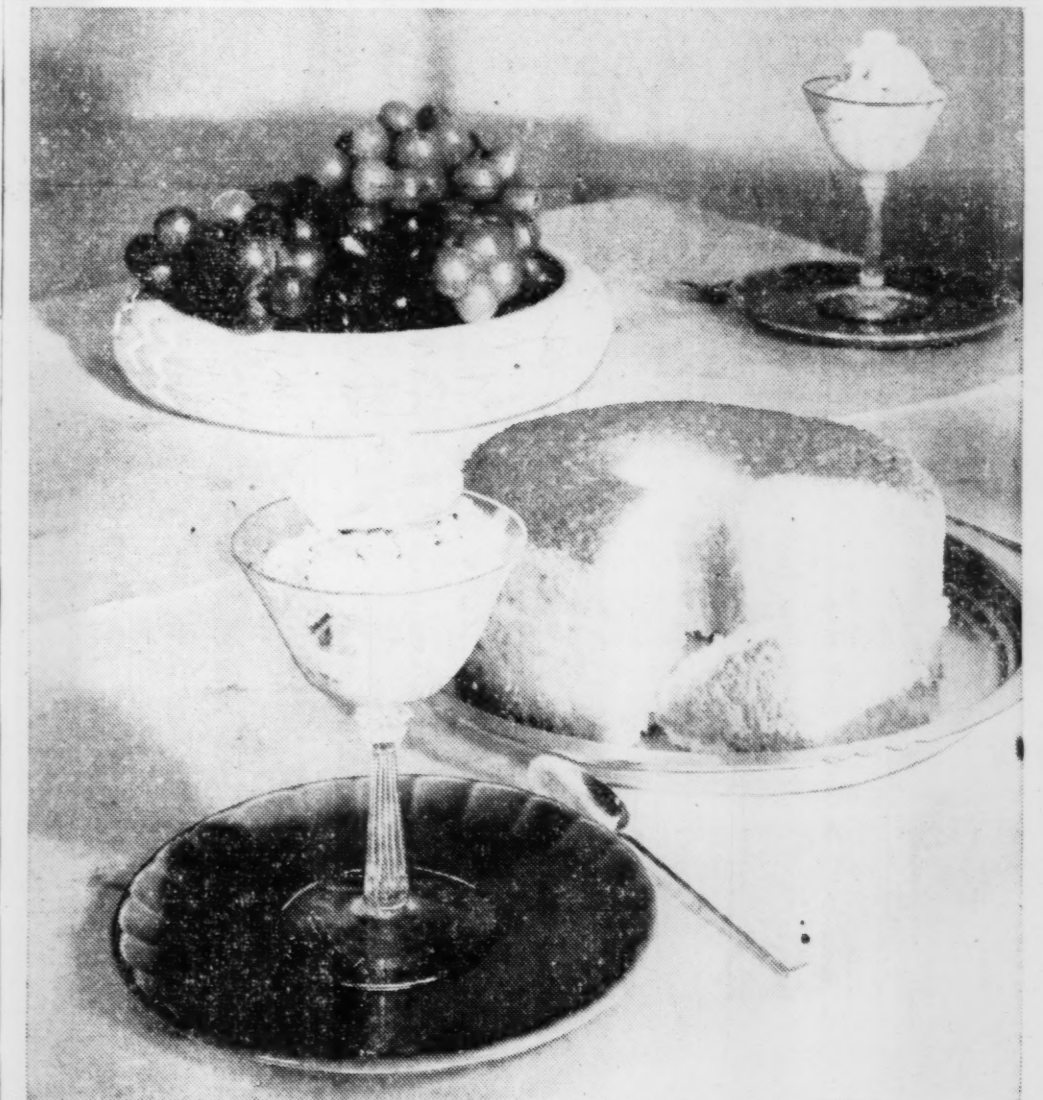

Macaroni With Cheese

Sauce.

- 1 9-oz. package macaroni
- 1 medium onion
- 2 medium tomatoes or 1-2 cup tomato juice
- 2 tablespoons minced green pepper
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 hard cooked eggs
- 1-2 pound creamy, mild, yellow cheese
- 1-4 cup sherry (if desired)

Cook macaroni as directed on package. Cook onion and green pepper in butter or margarine until tender but not browned. Add tomatoes or tomato juice. Combine with cooked macaroni and sliced, hard-cooked eggs and place in a casserole. Melt the cheese in top of double boiler and when soft, add the sherry, if using. Mix well, and pour over the casserole of macaroni. Bake half an hour in moderate oven, 350 degrees. Serves eight.

Rolls cookies behave best when dough is chilled in the refrigerator before the rolling. Cold hardens the fat in dough so that it rolls out easily on a slightly floured board.

For Sunday Dinner Dessert—Angel Cake and Mint Sherbet.

Orange Juice

DeSoto, 'tis said, discovered Florida oranges. What a pleasant surprise he and his men must have had when they tasted the sun-kissed sweetness of this juicy fruit. It is quite possible, too, they discovered that oranges and other citrus fruits and juices had a most beneficial effect upon those who were suffering from long weeks and months of eating the restricted diets of an adventuring ship.

Orange and citrus fruit juices not only make one feel better; they contribute quite definitely to building and protecting health. Orange juice contains some tooth-building calcium, and is even more important because it favorably affects the body's ability to retain and use its whole calcium intake. Drink orange juice, not only for breakfast, but to begin other meals, and between meals; flavor cakes and cookies with it; bake a sauce for puddings or gingerbread, or include in any number of ways in the daily food.

Of course, you know that many glassfuls of orange juice are an aid to speedy recovery from many illnesses.

Honor St. Patrick With This Dessert

Angel food cake requires lots of oven) and after 30 minutes increase heat slightly to 325 degrees, and bake 30 minutes longer. Remove from oven, invert pan 1 hour, or until cold, and remove carefully from pan. Note: Remove eggs from refrigerator several hours before using. They beat up lighter and this gives better mixture to cake, if used at room temperature.

Angel Food Cake.

- 1 cup sifted cake flour
- 1 cup egg whites
- 1-4 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon cream of tartar
- 1-4 cups sifted granulated sugar
- 3-4 teaspoon vanilla
- 1-4 teaspoon almond extract

Sift flour once, measure and sift four more times. Beat egg whites and salt with flat wire whisk. When foamy, add cream of tartar and continue beating until eggs are stiff enough to hold up in peaks, but not dry. Fold in sugar carefully, 2 tablespoons at a time, until all is used. Fold in flavoring. Then sift small amount of flour over mixture and fold carefully; continue until all is used. Turn into ungreased angel food pan and bake in slow oven at least 1 hour. Begin at 275 degrees, (some cooks insist upon starting it in a cold

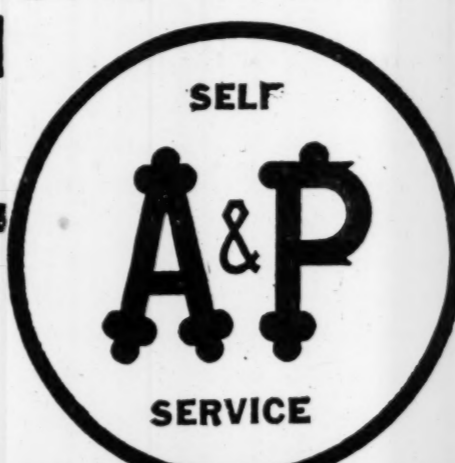

Mint Sherbet.

- 2 cups sugar
 - 4 cups water
 - 1 cup orange juice
 - 1-2 cup lemon juice
 - 1 teaspoon peppermint flavoring
 - 3 egg whites
- Boil sugar and water together two minutes. Remove from fire and add fruit juices, flavoring and a few drops of green food coloring and pour into freezing tray. When partly frozen fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Finish freezing. Fresh crushed mint leaves may be used for flavoring, if obtainable. If not, and peppermint flavoring is not easily found, crushed green mints or crushed peppermint candy may be used to flavor.

MARIETTA PLEDGES FIGHT FOR 'GENERAL'

Dalton's Claim on Famous Engine Scouted by Mayor Blair.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. MARIETTA, Ga., March 14. — Mayor L. M. Blair declared today that "Dalton has a battle on her hands" if she expects to win over Marietta in the contest for possession of the famous War Between the States locomotive, the "General."

Commenting on the Dalton plan to "recapture" the stolen war engine and place it on permanent exhibition at Rocky State Park, Mr. Blair denounced the historical significance in the engine as a Dalton display, declaring Marietta is rightfully entitled to it, as the dramatic dash of the engine began at Kennesaw (then Big Shanty) just out of the shadow of Kennesaw mountain.

City officials hope to return the locomotive to Marietta and put it on permanent display either on the Kennesaw battlefield area or on some city-owned property. The "General" is at present in Chattanooga.

Fred Birchmore, of Athens, was the principal speaker, and described his trip "around the world on a bicycle."

DRUG CLERK FACES TRIAL FOR MURDER

Attentions Forced on Wife, Defendant Claims.

FORT VALLEY, Ga., March 14. (AP)—Roy Roland, 27-year-old drug clerk charged with the murder of

M. J. Milburn, a farmer, last November, went on trial in Peach county superior court today.

In an unsworn statement allowed under Georgia law, Roland said he didn't remember what happened the day of the shooting. Roland contends he shot Milburn in a fit of anger after his wife had told him that Milburn, a friend of the Roland couple for many years, forced his attentions on her when the two attended a dance together in Crawford county with Roland's permission.

The defendant's wife, mother of four small children, was in the crowded courtroom for the trial. Judge A. M. Anderson barred from the courtroom all spectators who were unmarried and under 21 years old.

As evidence that slums are expensive, a representative of the United Housing Authority says: In Cleveland in 1938, city police protection for the slum area was $1.50 per slum dweller compared to $4.20 for residents in the rest of the city; fire protection cost $18.27 for each slum resident and $2.74 for the rest of the city; public health $2.02 as against $1.17.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY

SO LIGHT, DELICATE, MADE WITH SPRY

SAYS AUNT JENNY

ST. PATRICK'S DAY CAKE

1 1/2 cup Spry
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup milk
2 whole eggs and 1 egg white, unseparated
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 cups sifted flour
1/2 cup milk

Blend Spry, salt and vanilla. Add sugar gradually and cream well. (So quick and easy with triple-creamed Spry!) Add eggs, singly, beating well after each addition.

Sift baking powder with flour 3 times. Add flour to creamed mixture, alternately with milk, mixing after each addition until smooth. Bake in two Spry-greased 8-inch layer pans in moderate oven (375°F.) 25 to 30 minutes. (See what a light, fine-grained cake you get. Use pure Spry for all your cakes—pastry and frying, too.)

Spread Caramel Frosting between layers and on top and sides of cake. Decorate with shamrocks and pipe cut from citron and tinted green.

CARAMEL FROSTING

1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup hot water
1 tablespoon Spry
1 tablespoon butter
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon vanilla

2 tablespoons caramelized sugar
2 1/2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
1 egg yolk
2 1/4 tablespoons scalded top milk (about)

Place granulated sugar in skillet and stir constantly over medium heat until sugar is melted and dark. Remove from fire, add hot water gradually, and stir until dissolved.

Blend Spry, butter, salt, vanilla and caramelized sugar syrup. (Remaining syrup can be stored for future use.) Add 1/2 cup confectioners' sugar gradually, creaming well. Add egg yolk and blend. Add remaining sugar, alternately with hot milk, beating until stiff enough to spread. Add just enough milk to make a nice spreading consistency.

(All measurements in these recipes are level)

(Clip and save this Spry recipe)

Only Spry gives ALL these 3 EXTRA ADVANTAGES

Purer...stays fresh longer...creams so easily

"WITH Spry bringin' you three such important advantages as these, it's no wonder Spry pastry's so tender an' flaky or Spry fried foods so crispy an' digestible. As for Spry cakes—say, you just make this one!"

"See how light, fine-grained, velvety, good-tastin'. An' you save money—yes sir! Look at how little Spry costs compared to the most expensive cake shortenin'! Change to Spry for all your bakin' an' fryin'!"

In 6-lb., 3-lb., 1-lb. cans

PURER ALL-VEGETABLE Spry TRIPLE-CREAMED FOR EASIER MIXING

NO UNPLEASANT SMELL OR SMOKE WHEN YOU FRY WITH SPRY. IT'S PURER.

AN' OF COURSE THAT MEANS BETTER TASTIN' CAKES AN' PASTRY, TOO.

A party which a red-head, a brunette and two men started three weeks ago in Indianapolis, Ind., wound up in Atlanta after a week's stop in Chattanooga, Tenn., and Birmingham, Ala.

The climax found George, alias Russell, Dager and Walter Newton Brummett held for the federal district grand jury under bonds of $300 each, and red-headed Lila Hixon, 19, and brunet Mae Richard, 28, under subpoena as material witnesses.

Dager and Brummett were charged with "transporting in interstate commerce two women, to wit: Lila Hixon and Mae Richard, for immoral purposes and for the purpose of debauchery" in a complaint FBI Agent Gaines Baldwin filed with United States Commissioner David J. Meyerhardt.

"Our trouble came out of the mouth of a whisky bottle," Dager dejectedly told Commissioner Meyerhardt at the preliminary hearing. The case will go before the grand jury Monday and the trial will probably be held next week if the two men are indicted, Ellis Mundy, assistant district attorney, said.

The four were picked up by police here on disorderly conduct charges a few days ago—after the party had made a side excursion to Birmingham and had returned here.

Their trouble began, Mae Richard said, when she woke up one morning with two black eyes after drinking a lot the night before in an Atlanta hotel. She didn't rightly remember, she said, who beat her up, but the others said it was Brummett.

Baldwin told Meyerhardt that Dager and Brummett told him the two women "filled dates" for money in Atlanta but that though the girls checked in a Birmingham hotel while the men stayed at a tourist camp, they did not "fill any dates" there. In several hotels the couples registered as man and wife during their winter vacation in the south, Baldwin said the men admitted.

IDENTICAL TWIN CALVES.

MOULTREE, Ga., March 14.—(AP)—A Jersey cow owned by Lemuel Roberts, farmer living near here, presented him with twin calves which were identical in markings and size. Now he's worrying for fear he'll milk the same cow twice when they are grown.

ROOSEVELT FORCES UNITE IN CALIFORNIAIckes Averts Split. Masses Factions Against Garner for Primary.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 14.—(AP)—California's pro-Roosevelt Democrats—after a period of strife and sharp bickering—massed their divergent forces today for a united drive toward a third term for the President.

The collapse of a threatened split apparently paved the way for a clean-cut test of strength with proponents of John Nance

Garner in the state's primary election May 7.

Until the arrival early yesterday of Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes, the Roosevelt faction faced all the elements of a dog fight. One probably would have been headed by Governor Culbert L. Olson, the other by former Senator William Gibbs McAdoo. But Ickes found the hatchet could be buried—and buried it. The group promptly signed an armistice by putting Olson and McAdoo on the same slate.

FOR FINE COOKING

Good cooks, who pride themselves on their fine cooking, have discovered that SESSIONS PEANUT OIL is just the all-purpose cooking oil they have been wanting. It helps give their food that finished touch achieved by leading chefs the world over.

SESSIONS PEANUT OIL is a wholesome, PURE, peanut oil that helps you make easily digested foods. It is odorless and may be used over and over for frying as it does not absorb flavors or odors from foods. Because it may be heated to a higher temperature than other cooking fats and oils without burning or scorching, it makes an ideal oil for deep fat frying.

Use SESSIONS PEANUT OIL for flaky pie crust and pastries, waffles and wafers and fluffy, light cakes, rolls and breads; as well as for frying and for salads. You'll find it an all-purpose oil that can't be surpassed for down-right goodness.

Next Year's Auto Tag Peaches Will Be Big, Fancy and Juicy

The emblem of a big, juicy peach will adorn Georgia's 1941 license plates.

This appeared fairly certain yesterday as the result of the correspondence between Governor Rivers and officials of the Georgia Association of Peach Growers.

It has been charged that the peach on this year's tags looks more like a persimmon than a peach.

But everything was rosy yesterday. The peach growers had been soothed with the promise of a bigger and better peach next year and the motoring public settled back to wait for the first appearance of the new tag.

In a letter to the Governor, Emmett Snellgrove, executive director of the association, said "any criticism of the 1940 plate will have been long forgotten this time next year."

He went on to say that as far as the peach growers were concerned he was sure there was little criticism of the present tag and added:

"I hope, therefore, that you will overlook a letter of criticism here and there, and know that we most emphatically appreciate the spirit in which all departments of the state government worked against time and financial handicaps last year to make the tag possible."

SANTA MONICA, Cal., March 14.—(P)—Gracie Fields, English movie star, and her director-producer, Monty Banks, filed notice of intention to wed at the Santa Monica branch of the county clerk's office shortly before it closed last night.

They can obtain the license next Monday. Banks gave his legal name, Mario Bianchi, and Miss Fields' Grace Stansfield. They gave their ages as 42. Miss Fields divorced Archie Pitts, theatrical producer, in London last year.

HOLIDAY FOR SOME, SCHOOL FOR OTHERS

Pavils in 10 Institutions Play Into Hard Luck Despite Convention.

It's a hard life for students of 10 of the 44 white elementary schools in the Atlanta system today.

The "why" stuck out like the proverbial sore thumb. Principals and teachers of 34 of the elementary schools and of all the junior and senior high schools left yesterday for Macon to attend the annual convention of the Georgia Education Association, but ten of the elementary schools remained open.

Like the rising popularity of President Roosevelt when he goes fishing, the stock of those who went to the convention soared upward. That was because students of the schools which closed get a holiday.

The old adage about absence makes the heart grow fonder works perfectly in closed schools. But it was just "no dice" for students of those 10 schools, and they didn't like it. A poll by Dr. George Gallup, noted for his ability to test public reaction in various situations, would show the popularity of the principals and teachers who didn't go to Macon at an all-time low ebb, it was indicated.

Those "abused" students for the most part were grinning and trying to bear up under the disappointment of the last holiday, but privately they admitted "we just selected the wrong school to attend."

All of which brings to mind the answer to a query from an elderly man as to how a baseball playing and fishing youngster liked school. "Closed," was the immediate and unqualified response.

Be that as it may, Crew Street, Home Park, Inman Park, S. M. Inman, Pryor Street, Williams Street, Key, Milton Avenue, Connally and Haygood schools, all elementary white schools, will be open today and students are expected to be on deck with all the answers to their lessons.

All Negro schools will function as usual, it was announced at the city school administration offices.

Deadline Today For Driving With 1939 Auto Tags

Motorists who are still using their 1939 license tags will feel the teeth of the law after today.

Inspectors for the motor vehicle division, sheriffs, and police have been instructed to make cases against operators of automobiles bearing 1939 tags.

Ed Williams, director of the unit, pointed out that car owners had been given 10 weeks in which to obtain new license plates. The deadline for making arrests was extended to March 15 to permit the vehicle unit to catch up with last-minute mail orders.

Sunday School Board Handles $2,183,742.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 14.—(P)—Business transactions by the Baptist Sunday school board during 1939 broke all records with a total of $2,183,742, Dr. T. L. Holcomb, executive secretary, and Dr. J. O. Williams, business manager, reported at the opening session of the board's spring meeting.

The volume was approximately $100,000 more than for the previous year.

Representatives from nearly all the 18 states represented in the Southern Baptist convention and from the District of Columbia are attending the meeting.

CLOUDS IN SOUTH CHASED BY WINDS

Light Snows Dot Areas Around Lake Superior, Lake Huron.

By The Associated Press. Brisk northwest winds chased rain-laden clouds from some sections of the south yesterday, as light snows dotted various communities in the Lake Superior and Lake Huron area.

A heavy coating of frost was reported at Galveston, Texas. Weather experts described it as "quite unusual" for mid-March. In Mississippi, light frost was noted at Vicksburg.

It was below freezing in Kentucky and Tennessee, below zero in North Dakota—Devils Lake registered 2 below—and somewhat warmer in New England, with Boston reporting a low of 28. The protracted rainy spell that had soaked the south moved slowly up the Atlantic seaboard and spilled over into the upper Ohio valley.

Some rain also was reported in the Pacific northwest.

"Root shock" when flowers and trees are transplanted may be prevented by tiny amounts of vitamin B1 in solution, chemists find.

NEW JUDGE VOTED GEORGIA BY HOUSE

Omnibus Bill, Creating 10
New Judgeships, Sent to Senate.

The house of representatives in congress passed and sent to the senate yesterday the new omnibus judgeship bill, creating 10 new federal judgeships, including one for the north Georgia district. Three of the others are for circuit courts of appeals, while the remaining six are for widely scattered districts.

The bill provides that in the districts where a new judge is added the first vacancies created will go unfilled. Should the measure pass the senate a new judge will be named to sit with Judge E. Marvin Underwood until either he or Judge Underwood dies, resigns or retires. Then the district will revert to its one-judge status.

Extra Judgeship.
There has been discussion of the extra judgeship for north Georgia for several years and similar discussion to whom the appointment would go in the event that the office is created. The names most persistently heard in the past have been Cam D. Dorsey, Atlanta lawyer and former Harvard classmate of President Roosevelt; United States Attorney Lawrence S. Camp and Judge A. C. Wheeler, of Gainesville.

The new circuit judgeships would be two for the eighth circuit serving Arkansas, Iowa, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska and North and South Dakota and one for the sixth district embracing Kentucky, Michigan, Ohio and Tennessee.

In addition to the one for north

Holy Land Exhibit Continues to Attract Crowds

Nearing the close of its last week in Atlanta, the famed Holy Land exhibit at 489 Peachtree street, near Pine, continues to attract throngs of Georgians who have become fascinated with the miniature reproductions depicting the life of Christ. One of the most popular scenes describes the miracle of the resurrection of Lazarus. Unquestionably the most remarkable piece of mechanical work in the exhibit, the scene, one of 124 incidents portrayed, shows Lazarus rising from his crypt at the command of Christ. Sponsored by The Constitution, the exhibit is open each day from 11 o'clock in the morning until 4:30 in the afternoon and from 7 o'clock at night until 9:30 o'clock.

Georgia, the district judgeships are to be created in southern California, New Jersey, eastern Pennsylvania, southern New York, western Oklahoma and northern Illinois.

Meets Opposition.
Meanwhile, the Georgia plan encountered opposition from Senator Russell.

For years Russell has advocated providing the new judgeship by creating an additional district in the state. Consistently, he has blocked the appeal of Representative Rameck to set up the second judgeship in the Atlanta court.

"It has been passed by the house several times," Russell said, "but it hasn't become a law yet. I don't think there will be any difference this time."

The senator said he hoped other members of the Georgia congressional delegation would help him get a new district.

"We are entitled to the new district, and we ought to have it," he said. "I'm not disposed to take any less at this time."

Watson Statue 'Hogs' Scenery Of Capitol, Biographer Charges

Monument a 'Monstrosity That Is Disgrace to Art,' Brewton Says.

By LUKE GREENE.

The controversy over the statue of Thomas E. Watson in front of the state capitol took on a more serious aspect yesterday when William W. Brewton, of College Park, Watson's biographer, declared he was willing to head a movement to place the monument in a less conspicuous location, asserting it was a "monstrosity that is a disgrace to art."

Until yesterday the arguments had been confined principally to the question of whether Watson was right-handed or left-handed. They started when Ben Gray Moore, board of regents clerk, noticed that the statue, as depicted by the artist, was gesturing with his left hand.

Brewton said Moore's observation had opened the avenue to something far more important than whether Watson was right or left-handed.

He insisted that the people of Georgia have a right to say what shall be placed on the capitol grounds, and added there was no reason why Watson's statue should "hog" the choice spot directly in front of the main entrance.

"No Georgia man or woman deserves to have his or her statue in that location," he said. "I don't think Watson himself would like it if he thought everyone almost would have to bump into that bronze monument every time he came in the front entrance of the capitol. That place should be reserved for something that is symbolic of the entire state."

"I am an admirer of Watson," he went on, "but I have a right to criticize the statue."

"Several inaccuracies," He pointed to what he termed several inaccuracies in dates on the monument. For example, he said the statue revealed that Watson was a congressman from 1890 to 1892 whereas he really served from 1891 to 1893, since he did not take the oath of office until 1891.

From Cornelia came a letter from P. M. Reeves who defended the statue.

"The statue of Watson on the capitol grounds in Atlanta is as true to life as it is possible to produce one," he said. "I saw Watson on several occasions, and heard him speak in Lawrenceville during the great political campaign of 1894."

Turning to Watson's manner of gesturing, Reeves said "He had an oratorical trick, when speaking, of running the fingers of his left hand gracefully through his heavy shock of red hair on the left side of his head. As he pushed the red locks back in place and pulled his fingers clear, he finished the act always with a majestic sweep of the left hand."

Two-Fisted Fighter. "Watson made more gestures that hot day in Lawrenceville with his left hand than he did with his right hand," Reeves continued. "But that didn't establish him as a left-handed fighter. When he charged the opposition his enemies felt that they were getting both rights and lefts with full force."

J. M. Hayes, Thomson merchant, also contributed this much to the controversy: "The statue is a very good reproduction. Mr. Watson was left-handed, and the pose in which he is reproduced is one that was characteristic of him while making public speeches, with his left hand upheld, resembling a whip cracking over the back of a team when he brought it down with great force, to emphasize some statement in his speech."

ALIMONY SETTLEMENT REPORTED BY HAINES

MACON, Ga., March 14.—(P)—R. E. Haines, social security board manager here, has made an alimony settlement with his first wife.

Haines, who went to Columbus under a contempt of court citation, reported last night the settlement had been pending for months. He said he was not in arrears. He explained a misunderstanding due to a delayed message from his first wife's attorney caused the contempt citation to be issued.

Haines said that under the settlement the first Mrs. Haines would have no further personal claims against him, but that he would continue to provide for care of their children.

Six Counties To Seek Work on Dixie Highway.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. MARIETTA, Ga., March 14.—Delegates from Cobb and counties through which the Dixie highway, from Atlanta to Chattanooga, will meet with Governor Rivers in Atlanta Tuesday to discuss possibilities of extending shoulders and widening curves on the highway, considered one of the busiest arteries in the state.

Headed by the Cobb county commission, delegates will appear from Whitfield, Chattooga, Floyd, Gordon and Bartow counties at next week's session.

County officials believe by eliminating the numerous deathtraps on the highway and extending shoulders several feet a number of lives lost each year in traffic accidents can be spared.

WOMEN VOTERS TO EXPAND FIGHT FOR LATE PRIMARY

Speaking Campaign To Open Tomorrow; Representatives of League Will Visit All Precincts.

Beginning tomorrow the Atlanta League of Women Voters will carry its fight against an early primary into every precinct and district in Fulton county, in preparation for the meeting of the county Democratic executive committee early in April.

Opposition to the old early primary, the league points out, has been expressed by the people in a referendum in 1938, by a vote of 12,603 to 7,332, and a subcommittee of the Democratic executive committee has voted unanimously for a date of September 5.

The final decision, however, rests with the committee as a whole.

Week's Campaign.
The "flying squadrons" will move north and south simultaneously during a campaign which will last more than a week.

The schedule calls for the north-bound group to appear Saturday afternoon at Sandy Springs, Roswell, Alpharetta and Duluth.

The southern squadron will be at Hapeville, East Point, College Park, Palmetto and Fairburn.

Speakers will be men members of the Atlanta League of Women Voters. They include W. A. Baugh, Robert Sams, Alex Gaines, Dr. C. C. Aven, Guy Holcomb and Frank Carter.

Procession Planned.
Accompanying the cavalcade which will be made up of a motor procession of decorated automobiles will be Mrs. R. L. Turman, Mrs. J. R. McCullough, Mrs. J. J. Selva, Mrs. J. C. Blalock, Fred Scamling, Mrs. John Bradford, Mrs. William Gayle, Mrs. James G. Kendrick, Mrs. J. D. Thomas, and Miss Christine Smith.

"Evils of the old primary," the league points out, "are the fact that the early primary is held at a time when folk are not thinking about politics. The vote is always small, and not representative of the community will."

"It allows an officeholder if defeated to remain in office for seven months after he has been voted out. It comes before an officeholder has completed his record, and before his worth can be definitely adjudged."

"It discourages the candidate seeking office for the first time, and works to the advantage of those in office. It forces a prospective candidate, not in office, to abandon his private employment seven months earlier than is necessary, to make the race."

"How much of a sentence would you give him?" the judge asked Mrs. Clark. "You can go from one month, two or three or anywhere up to 12."

"Let it be three months," she decided.

The judge agreed.

ATLANTA, GA., FRIDAY, MARCH 15, 1940.

Because of Masks

The events and the piecemeal revelations of the recent past again must impress the people of Atlanta, of Fulton county and of Georgia with the need for legislation barring the mask from the streets and roadways of the state.

Whether or not Ku Klux Klan participation in the south Fulton floggings is ever proved, there remains the inescapable fact of its indirect complicity in the crimes. Self-admittedly it has laid the groundwork for the lawless seizure of countless persons and for their sadistic beatings. Whether the Klan—or Klansmen—participated, it cannot escape responsibility for a condition that permits the operation of masked hoodlums in open defiance of the law. Yet the Klan has in the past refused to unmask. The reasons given have been varied and, despite repeated provocation, city councils and the legislature have avoided legislating these masks from the streets.

They can no longer evade their responsibility. It will be beside the point to argue, as it has been argued, in the past, that legislation of this type would interfere with the celebration of Halloween, or that it might mitigate against legitimate advertising stunts. This will be a small price to pay for the banishment of masked bands from open violation of the rights of free citizens on the streets and roads of Georgia. And the threat inherent in the "parades" of the south Fulton area—if that was all involved in the operations of the Klan—is in itself a violation of the civil rights of the persons so "warned."

The Klan itself should now be willing to unmask. If it is not, then it must be unmasked—when on the public roads—by civil authority. If it wishes to mask itself, and to act as a secret order, which it is, then it should act as other secret orders in keeping its secrets to the meeting hall and baring its face to the public gaze when outside that hall. Otherwise it continues to be the vehicle, if not the participant, in such atrocities as have been uncovered by the death of Ike Gaston—who, unimportant in life, has become a symbol in death.

His very unimportance should make every citizen more determined that these persons be protected against bigotry and vigilante justice. Unless this is done, it will not be long before all men become very unimportant and hooded gangs will have put Hitler and his bloody, unmasked, minions to shame.

How long will Georgia continue to tolerate the masks and the whips? One cannot be separated from the other. How long will men delude themselves into thinking they can mask their souls before God when they undertake to judge their brothers and to punish in the night with bestiality unrivaled even in Germany?

Realistic Defense

There is, it would appear, a realistic development taking place in Scandinavia. It is perhaps best epitomized in the old adage "the Lord helps those who help themselves."

Sweden and Norway, having had a large part in the "peace" that has descended upon Finland, must have been well aware of the dangers of that treaty to themselves. They must have known of the "wasp-waist" railroad, the Hanko dagger and the other strategic gains devolving upon Russia.

Knowing that, they accepted the peace as the only alternative. They did not trust the Allies, with reason, and they rightly feared an involvement in the western war which would have made of them a battleground the equal of which never before had been seen.

Having accepted the peace, hard as it was, they have immediately turned—Finland, Sweden and Norway—to the forging of a mutual defense that never again will permit one to face an enemy singly. The danger now is too real.

It is evident there will be no rest until adequate defenses have been constructed. This is an expensive task, but vitally necessary.

Finland must not become another Czechoslovakia, Sweden another Poland. For in Scandinavia there is the embryo of another

United States. It was in the face of just such dangers this nation of 48 sovereign states was founded.

The safety agencies bend every effort to eliminate the hazards of traffic—with what result? They find that 20 per cent of all marriage proposals are still made on the street.

Your Privilege

Once again the annual campaign brings to each one of us the opportunity of membership in the Red Cross. To be one with this organization is truly a privilege of value far greater than the nominal sum it costs.

The American Red Cross can point to a record of service equaled by few humanitarian or service organizations. It is the first agency in time of disaster, of peace or tragedy of war, and through the Red Cross the people of America are provided a means by which they can exercise that important privilege of freedom, to help those who are in distress.

It is through the membership dues collected during these annual drives that the constant, daily work of the Red Cross in promoting safety, in serving the unfortunate and in guiding the handicapped to a better way of life, is carried on. It is through these dues the organization is kept together, prepared and ready at moment's notice to go wherever emergent need calls.

It is good that the cost of membership should be made so low, just one dollar for adults. For it is thus that everyone may be a part of the work, thus that the Red Cross may truly act for all of us in ways that we would, if it were possible, like to act in person.

The next time the workers of the Red Cross bring first aid to the injured, food to the hungry, clothing to the naked and shelter to the homeless, it will be good to know that they represent you, personally, as well as all the other millions of Americans who are imbued with that American quality of mercy.

You can achieve this merely by adding your name to the Red Cross roll call, now in progress.

An article on commercial canning says 70 pounds of live salmon produce 49 pounds of edible fish. And what, asks an old soldier, is done with this?

Unicameral Legislature

Georgians beset with the years of legislative turmoil and expense will do well to look to Nebraska, where a unicameral legislature is making enviable records of non-partisanship and economy. The brain-child of Senator George W. Norris is justifying the faith with which he fought for the innovation in American political life.

A recent special session disposed of a score of bills, dealing with public assistance, relief, pensions, unemployment, insurance and compensation, in 11 days at a cost to the taxpayers of $4,000. The first session of the unicameral group cost $103,445 in 1937. The 1939 session cost $100,878. The last session of the bicameral body cost $202,593. Norris, according to Walter M. Harrison in a North American Newspaper Alliance interview, declares the special session was the last hurdle of the experiment.

The 43-member senate operated with the smoothness of a big business organization, discussion running in the open and no opportunity provided for members to duck responsibility, and with no secret steering committees confusing the operation.

The unicameral legislature still is an experiment. Politicians do not like it. In practice it has brought a higher type of citizen to the duty of public office. But it carries greater responsibilities both to the electorate and to the legislators. And in the hands of a political ring it could wreak great damage.

In Nebraska it would appear to be working with astonishing results and is well worth the most sincere study.

Back from "Gone With the Wind," Dora thinks if the Confederates could have seen themselves in technicolor they would have done something about tattle-tale gray.

In France, prohibition now rears its head, but only on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. One can still take it or leave it alone, if he knows what day it is.

Remind us to ask, when Sumner Welles is through delivering his report of the conversations, "And what did Confucius say?"

Editorial of the Day

JURORS MAY TAKE NOTES.

(From the Florida Times Union.)

The written opinion by Federal Judge Grover M. Moscovitz of New York, that jurors are within their rights in taking notes on testimony is a formal decree that has been needed. It has the possibility in that it is a formal opinion of making such note-taking a required part of the proceedings in cases before courts.

As much also may be said in favor of his ruling that the prosecution is within its right, during a trial of a number of defendants, in furnishing the jurors with a diagrammed seating arrangement. This, of course, means that the defense has an equal right.

By the exercise of both of these rights, both prosecution and defense will aid the jurors in arriving at a more intelligent, most just verdict than if they depend entirely upon memory to sum up the testimony when they are sent to the jury room for consideration of the case. None but a mental wizard can listen to the testimony of witnesses in long drawn-out trials, and hope to remember more than a few of the highlights of the evidence.

The inevitable result is too much confusion of ideas when the 12 men begin their efforts to reach an intelligent decision. Like the witnesses of an accident, those who view a raging fire, or any other form of physical display, each forms his own concepts. The reactions of each will, in all probability, create impressions that are different from those of the others.

Note-taking may not have the effect of coordinating the thoughts of jurors, but it will give them something more tangible upon which to work when memory which is called upon to rehearse perhaps a hundred or a thousand points made by each side and to select therefrom those most pertinent to the rendering of a just decision. Some Florida courts have been permitting jurors to take notes on testimony for years, recognizing the vagaries of memory and the desirability of using some method of arriving at a more intelligent verdict than is possible through the time-honored practice.

Until more authoritative reports are heard than the report of the ruling by Judge Moscovitz, the Florida courts must, therefore, be given credit for the note-taking innovation.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

THE LITTLE SOMETHING EXTRA WASHINGTON, March 14.—"Brottus" (spelling uncertain) is a Gullah Negro word from the South Carolina balliwick of Senator James F. Byrnes, meaning the little something extra that sweetens a trade. There was no brotutus in the budget presented to congress by the President, who tried to make the unhappy lawmakers choose between economizing, taxing or raising the debt limit. The senators think they have found their "brottus," however, in the huge unexpended Treasury balance which is the apple of the eye of Secretary Henry Morgenthau Jr.

Government fiscal statistics are always irritatingly astronomical, but the situation is important enough to be worth the effort of understanding. It is briefly as follows:

"The President's original budget request kept within the $45,000,000,000 government debt limit, except for $460,000,000 of additional appropriations for national defense. He suggested, should be paid for in new taxes. The senators and representatives, horrified at such a suggestion in an election year, first thought that they would prefer economy. Accordingly, in the earlier appropriation bills, they hacked a bit here and chipped a bit there until they had saved a respectable total. Virtually all this total will now be sacrificed, however, if the senate appropriations committee is sustained in its desire to hand out $212,000,000 of extra "parity" or subsidy payments to the embattled farmers. Things will be back about where they were.

TOILERS AND SLICKERS It may well be that the sugar for the farmers will be withheld in the house. The urban interest is strong there. Last year a deal was arranged between Ed O'Neal, of the Farm Bureau Federation, and New York's F. H. LaGuardia, acting for the mayor's lobby, by which the city representative promised to vote for farm appropriations if the country representatives voted for relief appropriations. As usual in such deals, the city slickers were thoroughly hornswoggled by the honest toilers from the soil, who ran out of the relief vote almost to a man after getting their farm money safely through. Consequently the city slickers hope to take their resentment out of the farmers' hides this year.

In the senate, however, the rotten borough system gives the farmers a preponderant voice, which is why the senators have been so eager in the search for "brottus." Many senators would prefer to take their "brottus" by cutting the gizzard out of the defense estimates, in which, considering the situation abroad, they have astonishingly little interest.

But wiser leaders like Jimmy Byrnes, who will be managing the navy appropriation bill, are determined that this is no time to stint the army and navy. After inspecting the entire picture with great care, they have made up their minds that the Treasury's unexpended balance is the best source of free cash. Currently the balance is around $1,600,000,000. By the end of the fiscal year it will have been somewhat reduced, but it will still be well above $1,000,000,000. Take $400,000,000 from it, say the senators, and Secretary Morgenthau will still be able to sleep nights without tossing in fear of running out of cash. Take $400,000,000 from it, they also add, and the balance will still be from four to six times what it was when the Republicans relinquished the Treasury in 1933.

GREENBACK "BROTTUS" It is interesting to note that the source of "brottus" discovered by the senators was originally pointed out in a letter from Chairman Martin S. Eccles, of the Federal Reserve Board, to David Lasser, of the Workers' Alliance. This letter, which vastly irritated Secretary Morgenthau, also mentioned the $2,000,000,000 gold "profit" in the stabilization fund and the $1,500,000,000 silver "profit" as other sources of "brottus."

The last suggestion was unusually striking. To make a silver "profit," you must take the difference between the imaginary "official price" of $1.29 an ounce and what the Treasury paid for huge amounts of silver it cannot use, call this difference the "profit," and print currency against it. The transaction would be tantamount to printing greenbacks, since the world price of silver is 35 cents an ounce, or far below the "official price," which vastly irritated Secretary Morgenthau, also mentioned the $2,000,000,000 gold "profit" in the stabilization fund and the $1,500,000,000 silver "profit" as other sources of "brottus."

So far, it looks as though the Treasury will supply all the "brottus" required. But if business gets much worse, and the President grows much stronger in congress, the administration spenders may want to go infinitely further.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

Down to the Sea In Ships.

In my home city, Liverpool, there is an elevated railroad. (Only, there, it is called the Overhead.) It runs along the docks, for miles and it is a fascinating thing to ride and to pass scores of ships, great and small, lying in the inclosed docks, loading or unloading, and sleeping gently in the high seas, and voyages to every port of the known world.

There is nothing which holds more suggestion of the romance of life, to my mind, than the sight of many ships, pausing briefly from their argosies of the oceans. It takes but slight gift of imagination to start dreams and to picture, in the mind's eye, the strange places where these hulks have been, the distant lands they have visited and the ghosts of foreign influences that must cling around spars and decks.

Here is a spotless white ship that is destined for Africa and there a rust-red cargo tramp that goes wherever a few tons of cargo promise profit in the transport.

Great warehouses interspace the docks themselves and drays, hauled by heavy-footed draft horses, clatter over the cobblestones. Muscular laborers wrestle with boxes and bales and barrels of cargo and, rising from the opened doors, the odors of strange spices and pungent products assail your nostrils as you pass.

On the other side of the railway you look down on blank factory walls, on rows of humble little homes and on corner pubs and co-op grocery stores.

Over all hangs the misty sky of England, and, if it is a fine day, there rises here and there a great silver shape, tethered by thin steel cable, to a windlass upon a great motor truck. With men in soldier uniforms attending the mammoth balloons, these are the barrage balloons, protection against possible enemy raiders from the sky.

The Story Of A Race.

And you think, as you watch the panorama, that behind the city, behind the ships in port, there is a race of people that has made it all possible.

And you can't but do honor to such a race. They are men who have sailed the far seas of centuries ago, when the commonplace tourist trip of today was a voyage of discovery bereft with much peril. They are men who have searched out and found the mystery lands of the earth, men who have learned the secrets of the lonely waters and who have wrested the wealth of the earth from every hidden spot.

They are the men who have sent their sons to explore the wilderness and to uphold the wilderness. They are the men who have created the most far-flung confederation of nations in the history of the world.

They Have Many Faults.

The English have many faults, plain to wish to see. They are insular and proud, snobbish and conceited. They have been selfish enough to always place the interests of their own place first. But these are not faults exclusive to England. And they can deny that their dominion over the earth has been, on the whole, beneficial to the most of mankind.

It is easy to point to events in past history and say that this was wrong or that was cruel. But there is no nation on earth of which it can be said that it has done more good to the world than the British today who either cling to outworn theories or lean toward modern fallacies. There is, it is said on good authority, a taint of Fascist sympathy in high places in Britain's government.

But it is the people themselves who count. No government in Whitehall today dares go against the weight of public opinion. And the British people, as a whole, are good people. They are people with high ideals of personal and national honor, with a tremendous concept of the importance of freedom for the individual man.

And it is these people, the weight of their united public opinion, that forced the final showdown, last September, against the tyranny which, under Hitler, is Germany.

It is these people, who built the ships, the great sea empires and the little, free homes of England, that have said the rule of armed force must end. It is not the Chamberlains and the Churchills and the Edens. Perhaps Chamberlain would have preferred to continue to surrender to Hitler's force. But the people wouldn't let him.

That is, in the final summing up, the cause behind this war between Germany and the Allies, today.

COMMENT

By HUGH S. JOHNSON.

Westbrook Pegler, whose column, "Fair Enough," usually appears in this space, is away on vacation. During his absence, Hugh Johnson will contribute a daily column in his place.

Held as IMPERTINENT A distinguished columnist, colleague says that the London Sunday Dispatch asked "some of us" to explain why "when we in America are so opposed to Germany we should be irritated over the British blockade activities which are designed to bring Hitler to his knees."

The explanation was in part: "In protesting against some feature of contraband controls our State Department was seeking, I think, to keep the record straight. In this it undoubtedly had the support of American public opinion but largely for the same reason . . . all we are asking, I think, is that in using the blockade, Great Britain be as considerate as possible of American sensibilities."

If it is just to "keep the record straight" let's ask "to keep the record straight with whom?" There is only one answer: "With the American people, or (as the reply in question puts it) 'American sensibilities.' But that word, 'sensibilities,' is a word which would be keeping the record straight. It would be keeping the record crooked. It would be something like the practical treason of our ambassador to England during the World War, who used to present our protests over violations of the freedom of the seas with what amounted to advice that they were for American home consumption merely and ought to be ignored. That, like what is now suggested, amounted to betrayal of the trust of an entire nation.

My communist friend does not condone this kind of bad faith because he says that this policy has the support of the American people. That absolves him, but it amounts to saying that we don't care if our own coats are blockaded, or that our neutrality policies flouted, our mails violated and our imports from neutral ports as well as our exports to neutral ports confiscated—all in as clear a violation of international law as piracy is—we don't care if only our State Department will bluster—and do nothing about it.

"I Don't Believe It" I don't believe it. In the first place, I don't believe that Secretary Hull would stoop to such shadow-boxing and, in the second, I don't believe the American people would condone it if he should. There is no doubt of American hatred of Hitler and sympathy with the Allies—up to the point of engaging in either military war or the more deadly and modern form of war, economic war. To the extent that we willingly and at great sacrifice gave up neutral rights on October 3, 1917, we did to a remarkable and unprecedented degree in our neutrality acts, that is honorable and defensible and in accord with our policies since the beginning. But to the extent that rights are hijacked out of us at the points of boycotts or under muzzles of great guns, that is dishonorable and indefensible and a violation of both American and British tradition, also since our beginnings.

I can see wherein we owe any apology or self-justification to the British. We have much less any request that they let us bluster to save our faces, but not to take it seriously. I think the expression of such an opinion greatly weakens our State Department's position, or what is honesty it ought to be.

No Relief. Swiss men of military age exempted from military service due to physical defects or excused for special reasons must continue to go to school.

In addition to active service with the forces in the field every Swiss male citizen is required to attend a certain number of military classes each year. There, no matter whether they are fit for active service or not, they learn all the army's trained officers can teach them indoors.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

THE MAD HATTERS A gentleman was around arguing about hats. He is a hatter. He was saying that custom and style and the demands of society decree a man should have 12 hats.

"A dozen hats?" "A dozen," he said. "A round dozen, not a baker's dozen."

"Have you," I asked, "read 'Alice in Wonderland,' and the treatise on hatters?"

"Never," he said. "I read the trade journals on hats. You need 12 hats to be a well-dressed man. And—" "Alice," I interrupted, "once on her journey finally got around to asking directions from a cat."

"In that direction," the cat said, waving its right paw around, lives a Hatter. And in that direction, waving the other paw, lives a March Hare. Visit either you like; they're both mad."

The Hatter looked a bit sour. He was a mad hatter. "This Alice!" he said. "What does she know about hats?" "She knows from hatters. They are mad. As mad as March Hares."

"What else did this Alice say about hatters?" "Well, there was a trial scene. The King told the hatter to take off his hat. The hatter said it was his. 'Stolen!' shouted the King."

"I keep them to sell," the hatter said. "I've none of my own. I'm a hatter."

HATTERS' WEEK It seems the hatters are to have their week. I really don't know how we got started at this business of felt hats. I think it must be blamed on Mr. Lewis Carroll.

Still, as a one-hat man, I am interested in this business of a dozen hats.

This gentleman was talking about how hats progressed from the felt to the finished product. My hat has done it in the course of years it has been hung on my head, on other hats racks and also during the rains and snows and suns of the years. It is almost back to the felt.

I am sure it must be true that the well-dressed man requires a dozen hats. The hatters say so. And even if Mr. Lewis Carroll did make his Hatter a mad one, they still insist about the dozen hats.

I had meant to ask when they were needed. I can imagine a derby hat to wear to political speeches; a sort of cap with ear flaps to wear while hunting birds in cold weather; an old hat to wear to barbecues and fish fries, but somehow a dozen hats seem too many.

If one wishes to go to the opera or to dinner at the club, one can wear but one hat. All one has to do is put on one's one hat, check it at the check room, attend the opera or dinner, retrieve the hat; put it back on the head and go home.

I will admit that now and then the hat-check attendants look a bit curiously at my old chapeau. Nevertheless, it is a comfortable hat. There is something to an old hat. It fits all the knobs on one's head. It fits them better than a phenological.

Some of my best friends are old hats.

OLD HATS I HAVE KNOWN Mr. Byron Price, the executive editor of the Associated Press, was in Georgia last Sunday to speak to the A. P. members in their semi-annual meeting at Macon.

I noted his hat. It was so much like Mr. Grantland Rice's hat I commented on it. Mr. Rice, the famous sports writer, still wears the same gray felt he wore when attending the first football game in which the "Four Horsemen" played. It was Mr. Rice who gave them that name.

Before the editors met Mr. Price they liked him because of his hat. They knew he was all right.

Mr. Price's hat has been to Europe often, has been to the White House, has been in the United States senate. It has seen the world. Mr. Rice's hat has seen golf tournaments the length and breadth of the United States. It has viewed horse races, night clubs and world series games. It has seen most of the famous football games.

I am afraid I do not know any well-dressed men. Thinking back on it, the only people I ever saw who had 12 hats were the jugglers back in the days of vaudeville.

My old hat hangs on the rack in the office. It has visited Norway, Sweden, Denmark and endured the snows, sleets and winds of those countries. It looked on Hitler and Goering and something of Paris and France. It took the English fogs and rains in stride.

It is an old friend. If left in a check room for a few days, it remains there until called for. No one takes it.

Twelve hats indeed! Even the well-dressed man can wear but one hat at a time. I think the cat that directed Alice was right.

Still, the hatters are persistent. I do wish I'd asked why a well-dressed man with only one head, or bean, needs 12 hats.

Freedom Gives Doctors No Right To Quit Work During an Epidemic

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

The people of America have never believed in absolute freedom. They do not agree with the famous French liberal, that to qualify freedom is to destroy it—that freedom, like a woman's chastity, must be absolute to exist at all.

The laws on the statute books, and the laws for which people have clamored in various periods of our history, show that the liberty we demand is liberty guaranteed by law and regulated by law. It is obvious that complete freedom would be no freedom at all, for the strong would be free to suppress and abuse the weak. The first step in preserving freedom is restraint of those who would abuse it.

At frequent intervals down the years we have heard the plaintive howl of some group whose sacred liberties were being violated, but as a rule the freedom thus denied was freedom to rob or exploit or otherwise impose upon fellow citizens. And denial of such freedom is continually demanded by the long-suffering public. Nobody wants his neighbor to be free to torment him.

Therefore, laws approved by liberty-loving people define and limit freedom for the common good. Those who serve the public, and those who might injure the public, are regulated and restrained by law.

Consider, then, Bill Jones, the working man. If this is a free land, and Bill is "free-born, white and twenty-one," it is obvious that he has the right to conduct his private affairs to suit himself. He can quit his job and take another. He can persuade two friends to go with him. They three, or they and three thousand, can choose a representative to dicker with the boss in their name. That right is now guaranteed by law. To deny it would be silly, anyway—if this is indeed a free land.

But that isn't the whole story. In this highly organized, industrial land, Bill and his fellow workers have power to do vast injury as well as good—and all power must be regulated to preserve freedom.

Has Bill Jones, in serving his own interests, the right to deprive thousands of fire protection, to cause great quantities of food to spoil, to inflict heavy loss on many people who are not concerned in his affairs?

ABANDONING THE FUTURE

Editor Constitution: For many years, after other states were paying double the amount, Georgia paid her grammar school teachers only $40 a month and now pays about $60 a month.

So much is expected of school teachers. They must always be very discreet. They are expected to have dignity and intelligence; have excellent character and a pleasing personality; and be a helpful and broadminded citizen, active in all church and school activities. They must keep abreast of the times, constantly spending money for new books, magazines and summer courses or higher degrees.

The cotton mills in this county pay their employees as much as the average grammar school teacher is supposed to draw. It takes but little expense and training to become an excellent mill worker.

Last year, Georgia's school teachers were loyal and taught without six weeks' pay and more than six weeks in some counties. This worked a great hardship on the teachers, many of whom have dependents.

Georgia allowed these teachers to go unpaid and they are still unpaid. How many persons in other occupations would work without pay? These same teachers are working this year with hopes of pay but with no absolute assurance of receiving their salaries.

Georgia can not allow the present uncertain conditions to continue. If she does, her best teachers will go to other states to teach or turn to other occupations that are sounder financially. Georgians must awaken and select competent state officials.

SMOKING IN AUDITORIUM SEEN AS FIRE HAZARD

Editor Constitution: "Until common hazards are eliminated, we will continue to have murderous fires in public buildings. Insurance will help replace the structures. But no insurance can put back the breath of life into a row of blackened corpses"—from the January issue of Reader's Digest article, condensed from Public Safety.

I have suffered anxiety at the municipal auditorium concerts because of people smoking directly behind our seats in the dress circle during intermission. After reading this excellent article in the Reader's Digest I called the fire chief and the custodian to inquire if the fire laws had been changed, and finding they had not, to report this matter.

At subsequent concerts unfortunately the same conditions existed, and I therefore called the mayor and the chairman of the auditorium committee, and left messages with their secretaries. Several days later the Ballet Russe was given in an almost capacity house, and smoking was as prevalent as usual.

March 16 there will be another concert—could we possibly hope for enforcement of the fire regulations? If fire equipment and men are necessary at a performance of opera, why not also for concerts?

HE IS NOT PRO-ALLY

Editor Constitution: While in general I heartily agree with your editorial policy, nevertheless must protest its pro-Ally attitude. Please remember that it was stuff of this kind that did its part toward getting us into the last war. Many people—entirely too many—emote easily and look upon the printed word as proofs of holy writ. More to the point, quoting a supreme court justice: "Mere literacy may be a curse rather than a blessing. It may enable one to absorb notions mooted by the propagandist."

To ask the more intelligent of your readers to believe the news as you print it is equivalent to asking a jury to believe the testimony of an admittedly prejudiced witness.

Please allow us to form our own opinions. Strange to say, there are a few of us who consider ourselves fully capable of doing so.

NEWTON ANSWERS SPELLMAN SPEECH

Pastor Takes Issue With Remarks About Envoy to Vatican.

By The Associated Press.
Dr. Louie D. Newton, pastor of Druid Hills Baptist church, took issue yesterday with the head of the Catholic Archdiocese of New York over interpretation of Myron Taylor's appointment as President Roosevelt's representative to the Vatican.

In an address Tuesday at ceremonies in St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York, Archbishop Francis J. Spellman said: "The only reason which non-approvalists (of Taylor's appointment) seem to have for their position is the shibboleth of separation of church and state."

Releases Letter.
Dr. Newton, who is an associate secretary of the Baptist World Alliance, made public a letter to Archbishop Spellman in which he said:

"Your apparent ridicule of us in holding this 'shibboleth' will serve, I fancy, to stir many an American to yet firmer conviction regarding the priceless and precious principle of religious liberty and its inevitable corollary, complete separation of the church and state."

He also questioned Archbishop Spellman's remarks that "nobody protests because President Roosevelt has an ambassador to Great Britain, even though King George VI is the head of the Church of England," and "because we send an ambassador to the Emperor of Japan, who claims descent from the Son of Heaven, is there anyone thoughtless enough to suppose that the appointment means a union of the Japanese religion and the United States government?"

Newton's Answer.
To this Dr. Newton replied in his letter: "Your argument would be much more convincing, it seems to me, if you would include in your statement the fact that in these instances, as in other instances where we have duly appointed ambassadors, our government first recognized, through constitutional procedure, such neighbor governments, and authorized the President to nominate ambassadors; nor has it ever been remotely suggested that in so doing we were sending an ambassador to the Church of England or to any religious body in Japan, or elsewhere, for the very good reason that the constitution of the United States explicitly forbids such a course on the part of our country."

Briton Suggests Russian Bomb To Show Swedes War's Reality

By WILLIAM L. WHITE.
Special Correspondent.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden — (By mail)—I am out of Finland, and the big dining room of the Grand hotel in Stockholm might be the Copley or the Ritz in Boston, because of the soft carpets and the soft string orchestra and the soft shoulders of the Swedish girls in evening dress at the tables, and also because Stockholm, like Boston, is another old, comfortable city with lots of deep, soft winter snow.

At our table the three British correspondents for Reuters are telling how they got out of Finland from Abo while it was being bombed; how their car had to detour around streets blocked by ambulances and fire wagons; how, several blocks away, you first saw the flash and smoke of a bomb and then came the roar of it, then quite a while later the splashing tinkle of window glass back down onto the pavement.

But now, across the white tablecloths, and vase of flowers, and the shoulders of the Swedish women, the hotel orchestra is rippling through Sibelius' "Finlandia" symphony, which is only one reflection of the strong sympathy felt for Finland in soft old Sweden.

The British correspondents from Reuters tell about the Finnish girl in her Lotta uniform who was with them in the car when the alarm sounded, and they saw the bombers ahead over Abo, and it looked as though any minute a plane might turn over on one wing and come sliding down toward the car, which was then in an open place in the road. As they watched the planes, the Lotta girl said, very quietly, that there were bandages and splints in her knapsack if anything happened to her, and they needed them.

The Swedish men who sit at the tables with the pretty girls with white shoulders are all in black; mostly dinner and smoking jackets but a few white ties. They are goodlooking, well-groomed men, but we have come from a country at war, where all hair is clipped very short because of lice which could spread typhus, and the hair of the men here is all so long that they look to us like a convention of minor unsuccessful poets.

When the orchestra finishes "Finlandia" everybody claps with enthusiastic sympathy for Finland, and you can hear how soft the women's hands are, and the men's, too.

The tables are set around a glassed-in court, four stories high, which can be opened in summer, but which is warmly heated now, and you can look up at the black sky. Then one of the Reuters correspondents says wouldn't it be fun if the Russians came over and dropped a bomb—not a 200 kilo one but just a little personal bomb—through that glass skylight to wake up these folk to the realities of war.

And we look around unhappily at the beautiful girls with white shoulders talking with animation to the long-haired minor poets in black smoking jackets and black batwing ties.

BURNED HOUSE SPOILS OFFICIAL TAX REPORT

ROTHSVILLE, Pa., March 14.—(P)—A house that wasn't there cheated Tax Collector Jacob G. Conrad out of turning in 100 per cent collections.

Shy $2.25, he told the county controller: "That represents the tax on a house that burned to the ground. The owner refused to pay tax on a house that isn't there."

Good Morning

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

Professor J. R. Mosely, of Macon, a gentleman and a scholar, and best of all an humble follower of the Lord Jesus Christ, writes a weekly column in the Macon Telegraph which I read with much profit. I always feel that I have missed a blessing if I go to Macon and miss seeing Mr. Mosely. Next to a personal visit with him is to read his column. He was professor of philosophy in Mercer University for a number of years, and now continues his teaching ministry with his pen and with daily testimonies with friends as he goes about his always busy life. He loves trees, and knows how to help them bear more and better fruit. He loves flowers, and knows how to help them to a finer blush of beauty. He loves people, and knows how to help them to a fuller expression of the will of God.

In last Sunday's Telegraph, Mr. Mosely wrote under the compelling title, "In Utter Love and Sincerity." It was a moving sermon. In the course of his article, he had occasion to say:

"Years ago when I visited a North Carolina editor, he reminded me that when we were comparative youngsters he heard me make an address in which I brought it in with repetition that the secret of a happy life is to do work well and be kind. One who does this cannot escape the zest and joy of life."

The secret of happiness, Mr. Mosely is saying, is to do your work well and be kind. I am impressed with the fact that he assumes the proposition of work—to every man his work. I wish that truth might have renewed emphasis everywhere—that every man has his work to do. God has said: "Many, in every age, have sought to be happy without accepting this truth that each man must find his work and do it well. I have never seen a happy loafer. And then, of course, I am impressed with the proposition that we are to be kind. In that connection I would say that Mr. Mosely has impressed me as one of the kindest persons I have ever known."

Mr. Mosely quotes Emerson: "Our work is our life-preserver. Do your work well and you will reinforce yourself. A man is relieved and gay when he has put his heart into his work and done his best; but what he has done or said otherwise shall give him no peace."

Everyone wants to be happy. May we say, according to the philosophy of Mr. Mosely, that everyone may be happy? Some of the happiest people I know are in the most difficult situations imaginable. They are standing up under heavy burdens, working their way toward the dawn—in kindness.

'NO LEFT TURN' SIGNS

TROUBLE PEDESTRIAN

MINNEAPOLIS, March 14.—(P) Traffic Patrolman Roger Rydland swears it's a fact—

Trudging through the snow on an avenue where "no left turn" signs abound, a woman stopped to ask him: "I see those 'no left turn' signs all the way, and I'm tuckered out. How much farther do I have to walk through this snow before I can turn?" "Turn left right now," replied the flabbergasted Rydland.

FULTON PARK URGED FOR PROCTOR CREEK

Council Public Works Body Approves Center Hill Playground Plan.

Proposed conversion of the old Proctor creek disposal properties, comprising about 32 acres, into a park and playground for the Center Hill section of Fulton county was approved yesterday by city council's public works committee.

Dr. C. W. Childs, former councilman, headed a committee from the Grove Park Civic League asking the city to make the property available for parks development by the county.

The city committee voted to refer the matter to City Attorney Savage, Chief of Construction

Clarke Donaldson, Parks Manager

George I. Simons, and the citizens' committee to work out an agreement through which the city would continue its ownership and at the same time permit improvement of the tract for park purposes.

Among others representing the Grove Park area in addition to Dr. Childs were H. T. Sargent, E. E. Redd, Vester Dial, and Q. F. Hayes.

The old plant between Marietta road and Bankhead highway lies outside the city limits, and was abandoned when the new Clayton disposal plant was constructed on the banks of the Chattahoochee river as part of the development of the metropolitan sewer system.

Favell Shows Col. Julyan Rebecca's Letter; Uses Danny as His Witness

By DAPHNE DU MAURIER.

SYNOPSIS.
In the south of France, where I was traveling as companion to Mrs. Van Hopper, I met Max de Winter. My own pale shyness was in contrast to his brooding silence. Mrs. Van Hopper told me he was the owner of a famous estate, Manderley, which he had not occupied since the accidental death of his wife, Rebecca. Mrs. Van Hopper took ill and was confined to her bed, and found myself spending many hours with Max; before long I was deeply in love. When Mrs. Van Hopper suddenly decided to leave, Max asked me to marry him, and took me to Manderley as his bride. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

FINAL INSTALLMENT.

Favell turned. "Hullo, Max," he smiled. "Things are going pretty well for you, aren't they? Better than you ever expected. But you know, Max, I really feel I ought to talk things over with you..."

"Talk what things over?"
"Well, the open sea cocks, for one thing, and the holes drilled in the planking—those holes that were drilled from the inside!" He paused. "You see, Max, when I read in the papers about Rebecca's boat being found with a body in it—and heard from Danny the appalling news that it was Rebecca's body—and now this distressing evidence from the boat builder—well, I've naturally become tremendously intrigued. You know, I've a horrible feeling that somebody's going to use that very old-fashioned but expressive phrase, 'foul play.'"

"You see, Max," he continued, "I'm in rather an awkward position." He took a folded note from his pocket. "You've only to read this little note to understand. It's from Rebecca. She wrote it to me the day she died—and what's more, she had the foresight to date it. Incidentally, I was on a party that night, so I didn't get the note until the next day."

"And what makes you think the note would interest me?" Maxim asked.

"Oh, I won't bother you with the contents now. But I can assure you that it isn't the note of a woman who intends to drown herself that same night. . . . Seriously, Max, do you think I ought to give this note to the coroner?" His voice sent a chill through me. "Or do you think perhaps it will make things too awkward. . . .?" His voice suddenly took another tone. "Do you know, Max, old boy, I'm fed up with my job as a motor car salesman. It's very exasperating—driving about in expensive cars you don't own. I've often thought how nice it'd be to retire in the country—have a little place with a few acres for shooting, perhaps. . . ." He grinned. "I've never really figured out what it'd cost a year, but I'd like to talk it over with you, Max."

Max agreed to talk it over—in a private room at a nearby inn. But Favell's threat of blackmail made him cautious; he signalled to Frank, and when Max and Favell entered the room, Colonel Julyan, Frank and I were waiting. Maxim told the colonel about Favell's "proposition."

"I think you can handle this better than I, Colonel Julyan," he said. "Actually he offered to withhold some vital evidence if I'd make it worth his while."

Favell spoke calmly to Colonel Julyan. "I'm only interested in seeing justice done," he said. "That boat builder's evidence suggests suicide. Now I've a little note here, which I consider puts that possibility quite out of court."

He took the note from his pocket. "Read it, Colonel Julyan," he said.

Favell looked at Maxim with a confident smile, as Julyan began to read:

"Jack darling—I tried to ring you but could get no answer. I have just seen the doctor and I'm going down to Manderley right away. I shall be at the cottage all this evening, and shall leave the door open for you. I have something terribly important to tell you. I want to see you as soon as possible."

No one spoke, until Favell broke the silence.

"Does that look like a note from a woman who has made up her mind to kill herself?" There was no reply. "Come, Colonel," Favell continued, "as an officer of the law don't you feel that there are some slight grounds for suspicion?"

"Of murder?"

"What else? You've known Max a long time, Colonel—so you know he's the old-fashioned type who'd die to defend his honor—or who'd kill for it! Step right up, Max old boy..."

"Since you have this thing worked out so carefully," Colonel Julyan broke in, "perhaps you can also supply the motive?"

"Of course," he crossed the room to the door, and turned, smiling. "If you'll all excuse me a moment."

He returned almost immediately. "Here she is," he said with mock gravity, "the witness who will supply the motive!"

Mrs. Danvers walked silently into the room.

"No offense, Colonel," Favell said, "but I think if I put this to Danny she'll understand it more easily." He turned to her. "Danny—who was Rebecca's doctor—in London?"

"I don't know anything about that."

"Don't give me that, Danny. You knew everything about Rebecca," she said nothing, and he went on. "You knew she was in love with me, didn't you? Surely you haven't forgotten all the good times she and I used to have down at the cottage on the beach. Come on, Danny—you can tell about it now."

Suddenly she turned on him with a fierce outburst. "She was not in love with you—or with Mr. de Winter—or anyone! She laughed at you! Love was only a game with her, only a game. It made her laugh, I tell you. She used to sit on her bed and rock with laughter at the lot of you!"

"Mrs. Danvers," Colonel Julyan interrupted. "Can you think of any reason why Mrs. de Winter should have taken her own life?"

"No. . . . No. I refuse to believe it. I won't believe it."

Favell clutched at this. "Listen to me, Danny," he said. "We know that Rebecca went to a doctor in London on the last day of her life. You think we're after the secrets of Rebecca's life. I'm trying to defend her, too—to clear her name of the suspicion of suicide. There's been deliberate murder—and you'll want to know the name of the murderer. It rolls off the tongue easily—George Forster, Max's cousin de Winter! We've got to tell the whole truth, Danny!"

Her voice was even, her eyes steady on Max. "His name was Dr. Baker—627 Goldhawk road—Shepherd's Bush. . . ."

"There where you'll find your motive," Colonel Julyan said. "Baker'll tell you why Rebecca went to him—to confirm that fact that she was going to have a child. That's what she was going to tell me—that's what she told Max, who knew he wasn't the father—on the night she was killed!"

We are riding wildly through the night in search of an obscure little doctor. The road slips back beneath us, faster and faster. Each one is silent with his own thoughts, his own hopes. But whether or not we find Dr. Baker, whether or not he tells us what we want to hear, this much can never be taken from me: That at last I have really wholly possessed Maxim; have had his love completely, in the hour of agony and peril that welded our lives together as our days of happiness never could.

100 TO BE NAMED AIDES IN DRIVE FOR UNIVERSITY FUNDS

Plans Will Be Perfect-ed at Meeting Today of Leaders in Cam-paign for the Center.

Plans for enrollment of nearly 100 volunteers as members of an "advance gifts committee" in the Southeast University Center campaign in April will be perfected at noon today when a dozen group leaders and associates already enlisted to assist George Winship, committee chairman, meet with Preston S. Arkwright, general campaign chairman, at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

Winship's committee will share with an "initial gifts committee," headed by Charles Howard Candler, Thomas K. Glenn and Robert W. Woodruff, responsibility for bringing the University Center appeal to a specially selected group of prospects for more substantial contributions. The "initial gifts committee" is particularly concerned with securing financial support for a number of specific projects in the center development program, while the "advance gifts committee" will solicit larger gifts toward support of the general program.

Organization plans for the "advance gifts committee," to be approved by the group leaders at today's meeting, call for the enlistment of 16 volunteers in each of the six committee groups.

Those serving as chairmen and associate chairmen of the six groups into which the "advance gifts committee" will be divided are: Alvin E. Foster with L. S. Gilbert, as associate chairman; J. C. Malone with William A. Parker, as associate; George T. Marchmont with Frederick W. Orr, as associate; Alva G. Maxwell, with Oby T. Brewer, associate; J. Robert Neal, with Freeman Strickland, as associate, and A. L. Zachry, with Robert A. Clark, as associate.

The Atlanta area campaign will climax the efforts of Emory University and Agnes Scott College to raise a total of $5,000,000 to meet the conditions of a grant of $2,500,000 by the General Education Board of New York toward the development of a University Center for service particularly in the southeastern states.

Other institutions included in the University Center project are Columbia Theological Seminary, Georgia School of Technology, the University of Georgia and the Atlanta Art Association.

SECRET POLITICAL PAYMENTS BARED

Coster's Brother Testifies Two Rival Leaders Were Paid for Services.

NEW YORK, March 14.—(AP)—Secret payments made by the late F. Donald Coster-Musica to a pair of rival Connecticut politicians—in one case from a hidden "slush fund" and in the other case charged off to "advertising" and "legal" expense—were described today by a witness in federal court.

Through this "slush fund," said George Dietrich-Musica, $42,000 of the funds of McKesson & Robbins, Inc., was disbursed. One of the first payments—amount not mentioned—was made to Harry E. Mackenzie, former Republican leader in Connecticut, he declared.

Dietrich-Musica also swore Archibald McNeill, former Connecticut Democratic national committeeman, was secretly put on the pay roll by Coster-Musica in January, 1934, at $5,000 a year to handle "tax matters."

Dietrich-Musica is a government witness in the mail fraud trial of five men accused of having had guilty knowledge of the spectacular juggling of assets by which his brother, Coster-Musica, looted millions from the drug firm before shooting himself in 1938.

NOAH SEARS NEARS HIS 87TH BIRTHDAY

Still Doesn't Like Red Fingernails, Declares Kinswoman.

Noah S. Sears, who a little more than a year ago upbraided the modern girl for, among other things, "painting her fingernails red"—his sister-in-law says he still has the same convictions—is going to have a few friends in to dinner Wednesday to help him celebrate his 87th birthday.

"It is to be a quiet celebration with just a few friends for the midday meal," he sent word.

A native of Riverdale, Mr. Sears moved to Atlanta in 1873 to take a job with the Georgia railroad. He rose to the rank of engineer, but resigned when they transferred him out of the Atlanta division. Since then he has traveled and "been a jack of most all trades at one time or another."

He was best known around Atlanta as a clothing salesman. He worked for 35 years with Hirsch Brothers and made many friends. He lives at 1008 Albion avenue, N. E.

TEMPORARY WRIT ISSUED IN DAM CASE

Governor To Withdraw Guard if Injunction Becomes Permanent.

MIAMI, Okla., March 14.—(UP) Governor Leon Phillips obtained a temporary injunction in district court today against the completion of the $20,000,000 Grand river hydro-electric dam project.

A writ issued by Judge William M. Thomas was made returnable at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning against the Grand River Dam Authority, a state corporation, which borrowed $11,000,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and received a $9,000,000 PWA grant to erect the dam and sell electric power.

If a permanent injunction is granted, the Governor, who demands $850,000 additional from the government to help replace roads and bridges to be inundated, said he will withdraw the dozen national guardsmen placed on the dam site at Disney.

If Phillips loses his court fight, he said he "will keep the troops on deck until the PWA puts some money on the line."

Phillips said he was demanding bond or money in escrow from the PWA pending his state claims in condemnation proceedings, which he is trying to force the PWA into. PWA officials have indicated willingness to go into condemnation litigation but so far have not.

FLORIDA SOLON SEEKS

NEW LENDING AGENCY

WASHINGTON, March 14.—(AP) Senator Andrews, Democrat, Florida, proposed legislation today to set up a government agency similar to the Public Works Administration to lend money for public works.

The organization would have a revolving fund of $300,000,000 for loans to states, municipalities and various public bodies. Andrews said he believed the agency's own interest returns would pay its cost, and borrowers would have 50 years to repay the loans.

Only four states now require motorists to renew license plates January 1, others having advanced renewal date toward spring months.

LAST OF ROUTE 54 PAVING IS APPROVED

8.6-Mile Stretch Between Atlanta and Jonesboro To Be Improved.

Immediate grading and paving of 8.6 miles of Route 54, only remaining unpaved stretch between Atlanta and Jonesboro, was assured yesterday when the State Highway Department forwarded the approved contract to the successful bidder.

W. B. Brantley, state highway engineer, said bids were taken February 9 and the low bidder was the Hardaway Contracting Company, of Columbus. The bid was $253,000. Actual award was withheld pending clearing of right-of-way deed by Clayton county authorities. The project extends from the Fulton county line to Jonesboro.

Route 54 runs between and almost parallel to the old Macon highway and the new route to Macon. It is designed to relieve the old Macon highway of much of the heavy traffic on Routes 54 and 3, which converge at Jonesboro.

It also was pointed out that on completion of another project involving a cut-off between Routes 54 and 42, in Clayton and DeKalb counties, through traffic will be routed around Atlanta to avoid downtown congestion. Grading work on the latter project will begin when right-of-way deeds are cleared.

BILL WOULD LIMIT CAMPAIGN GRANTS

Amendment to Hatch Act Prohibits Donations in Excess of $5,000.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—(AP) In as striking a display of razzle-dazzle as the senate has seen in years, foes of the Hatch "anti-politics" bill put that measure in jeopardy today by amending it to prohibit campaign contributions of more than $5,000 from any one person or corporation.

Some supporters of the measure ruefully acknowledged that the coup had seriously lessened its chances of passage at this time, when campaign chests are being stocked up for the political wars just ahead. Although saying that Senate passage was assured, they expressed fear that it might be shelved in the house.

Opponents of the Hatch bill, under which the existing ban on political activity by federal workers would be extended to an army of state workers paid with United States funds, almost chortled when the $5,000 campaign fund restriction was approved, 40 to 38.

"It will have more effect on the Republicans than on the Democrats," beamed Senator Bankhead, Democrat, Alabama, who had offered the amendment.

Only one Republican—Frazier, of North Dakota—voted for the Bankhead amendment.

Senator Hatch, Democrat, New Mexico, author of the bill, voted against the Bankhead amendment because, he said, "its real purpose was to antagonize the Republicans who have been supporting my bill."

The amendment would place an absolute $5,000 top on the total contributions that could be made by any individual or corporation in a single year. Contributions above that figure would be "pernicious political activity" and would be punishable by fines of at least $5,000 and jail sentences of at least five years.

SALLY FORTH Says:

Dental Centenary Gathering To Honor Mrs. De Los Hill

... SIGNAL HONOR has been accorded Mrs. DeLos Hill, who leaves tomorrow for Baltimore, Md., to be guest of honor at the Dental Centenary celebration to be held from Sunday through Wednesday in that city. Mrs. Hill, you know, is affectionately connected with the dental profession, her late husband having been a prominent dentist here. Another factor linking her to this field of medicine is the DeLos L. Hill Jr. Memorial Dental Clinic, which she erected at the Atlanta Southern Dental College in loving memory of her son.

The centenary celebration, sponsored by the American Dental Association, is given by the dentists of Maryland. Dentists from all parts of the United States will convene at the dental college in Baltimore for the purpose of evaluating past achievements of the dentistry profession and for planning the future. The Atlanta Southern Dental College will be among many schools submitting exhibits at the affair.

Because dentistry was founded in Maryland, dentists of that state felt it their obligation to make possible the forthcoming celebration at the birthplace of the profession.

The women of the Alpha Chapter of Psi Omega dental fraternity in Baltimore have issued engraved invitations to the tea at which they will honor Mrs. Hill from 4 to 6 o'clock on Sunday at the dental chapter house. The local chapter of the fraternity is headed by C. W. DeLong, of Live Oak, Fla., and the chapter house on Piedmont avenue was erected in memory of Dr. Hill, who was supreme grand master of the organization at the time of his passing.

One Tuesday the members of Psi Omega will entertain at a luncheon, when Mrs. Hill will again be honored.

An interesting part of the program at the celebration will be Mrs. Hill's lecture on the DeLos L. Hill Jr. Memorial Dental Clinic here, which was opened in 1937, and which benefits underprivileged children.

WHEN ATTRACTIVE

Martha Merritt arrives this morning from Mount Vernon Seminary in Washington to spend the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Hynds, she will be accompanied by her equally lovely roommate, Charlotte Feels, of Miami. As soon as the belles step off the train they will dash to the breakfast at which Helen Randall, a schoolmate, will entertain at the Dining Club.

Tomorrow evening Martha and Charlotte will be central figures at the dinner party at which Dorothy Sanford will be hostess at her home on West Andrews drive. On Sunday the popular belles will drop in for the open house which Helen Randall is holding at her home in Druid Hills for her charming guests, Maudie Smyre, of Gastonia, N. C., and Anne Applewhite, of Newport News, Va.

The next affair on the calendar for Martha and Charlotte will be the bridge party to be given by Julia Block Tuesday at her home on Peachtree in honor of the Mount Vernon girls who are here for the holidays.

Charlotte, a stately blonde, will be remembered from her visit to Martha last summer, and the pair will be sought-after figures at many more social affairs prior to their returning to school after Easter.

... LUNCHEONS, teas and dinners are among the social events being enjoyed by the delegates to the spring meeting of the national board of directors of the Girl Scouts of America, which is being held in New York city.

The meetings opened yesterday at the Girl Scout headquarters in Radio City, and will continue through today, with Mrs. Harvey S. Mudd, national president, presiding.

Atlanta is being represented by Mrs. Russell Bellman, the former Katherine Haverty, who has served as chairman of the Juliette Low Region, including Georgia, Florida, South Carolina and North Carolina, for the past five years. She was joined in the metropolis by Mrs. Allen Harris, of Johnson City, Tenn., the Girl Scout board member from Region V, who is staying with her at the Junior League Club. Mrs. C. D. Christ, of Orlando, Fla., another regional board member, is also attending the meeting.

The members will be honored today at the luncheon to be given by Mrs. Walter N. Rothschild and the tea at which Mrs. Frederick Brooke, past national president, will entertain.

Social affairs yesterday included the buffet luncheon given by Mrs. Ralph Wright, chairman of the board, and the dinner at which Mrs. Vance McCormick was hostess.

... MEMBERS of the very young set are brushing up on their hillbilly language, and mothers are searching for appropriate costumes for their sons and daughters to wear to the skating party to be given this afternoon by Winnifred Shackleford at the Roller-drome.

The attractive young hostess, who is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Bernard Shackleford, issued the following clever invitations, sketched on gray paper, and illustrated with colorful hillbilly figures:

"I reckon it hain't gonna do no harm Me ax'n yer folks ter the Roller-drome. I sorta been hankerin' for a hill-billy skate. What yer spin aroun' and swing yer date. No need'n be'n particular what yer w'ar. Ain't none of them city folks gonna be thar. Jist cum from the hills in Dog Patch style. On yer arms yer skates, and on yer face a smile. No need'n fillin' up to yer cum. Yer kin git yer vittles out thar, by gum!"

... A BABY DUCK wearing a pale blue Easter bonnet seals the clever invitations issued by little June and Jane LaFontaine to their birthday party. Scheduled for next Tuesday from 3 to 5 o'clock, the affair will assemble a large group of Atlanta's youngest belles and beaux, who will be gleefully entertained by games and dancing.

The inside cover of the gay yellow invitations features drawings of petite Dutch maidens playing the game of "he loves me, he loves me not" with a spring blossom, an old Dutch mill forming an appropriate background for the picture. Centering the page is the invitation worded in rhyme. Sally is certain that the party will be a grand affair.

George Raft's Divorce Will Cost Dearly

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, March 14.—Olivia de Havilland is trying to buy back her contract from Warner, but the asking price is $100,000, which is a little bit too much for Olivia's purse. She has three years to go on her present ticket. . . . Talking about money, rumor hath it that Mrs. George Raft will consent to divorce George if—and this is the if that destroys negotiations—he will give her a cash settlement of $200,000, plus 20 percent of future film earnings. George wants a divorce pretty badly right now, but—And talking about money, the fact that Ginger Rogers filed her suit here instead of Reno proves that there is no other man on her future marriage horizon. She will now have to wait a year before she is free to wed again. Ginger, by the way, is planning a long trip away from Hollywood this summer—probably to South America.

Mrs. Jock Whitney is a constant visitor to Republic studios, where it is presumed she is settling the details of her forthcoming movie with Gene Autry. A good title for the picture, as suggested by a local wit, would be "The Cowboy and the Lady." Mrs. Whitney has an amusing habit of naming her dogs after movie-star surnames. Inmates of her kennels include Flynn, Rooney and Cabot. . . . Hedy LaMar has decided to take the initiative in getting good movie stories at Metro. She is currently authoring, with husband Gene Markey's help, an epic to further, instead of destroying, her career. She will try to sell it herself to the studio. It should be easy. I defy any man to refuse such a safety-lady.

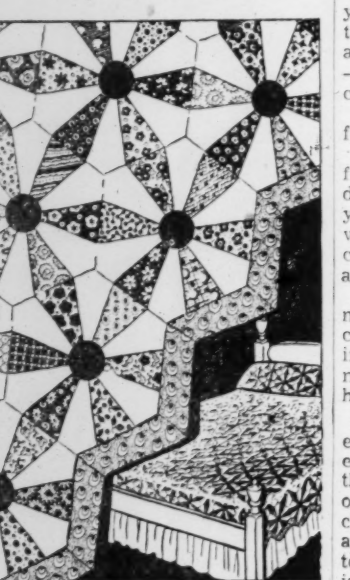

Robert Young was pestered recently by a jeweler who tried to make him buy a large diamond ring as a wedding anniversary gift for his wife. Bob finally got rid of him by saying, "Sorry, she's still wearing last year's model." . . . James Roosevelt is said to have added another five million dollars to his movie capital. The extra money was raised during Roosevelt's recent trip to New York and Florida. I understand that a provision for televised movies is included in the financial set-up. . . . Andrea Leeds says she will definitely retire from picture-making at the end of this year. She plans to raise a family and-or do some traveling with husband Bob Howard to foreign parts.

William Powell is complaining about the avalanche of "leg art" given his beautiful wife, Diana Lewis. He has gone so far as to suggest that he will ask her to pose in pictures unless her face is photographed in lieu of her legs. . . . Margaret Sullivan wants to do summer stock this year. I wish she wouldn't. She is too good an actress to leave Hollywood without being missed enormously. . . . Cary Grant and Fay Wray are getting to be consistent. Which reminds me—why no pictures for Miss Wray? She can act. . . . Gary Cooper had an operation on his eye two weeks ago. He is okay now and emoting in "Northwest Mounted Police".

The Clark Gables arrive at the Victor Hugo with the apparent intention of dining there. But Mrs. Rhea Gable has beaten them to the punch—and Carole and Clark discreetly withdrew. . . . Errol Flynn, who stated that the reason he reconciled with Lili was because he was "tired of bad food," is now back to the bad food—which is another way of saying he is again occupying his bachelor apartment. But he'll probably be back with Lili by the time this appears in print. Don't you ever get dizzy, Errol? One of these days the leaving-Lili-Errol will bump into the going-back-to-Lili-Errol. . . . A recent visitor to these parts was asked his opinion of Hollywood. "Its efficiency is amazing," he said. "And its inefficiency is appalling." Rather a good summing up.

Parents' Duty To Provide Safe Social Life For Girl

By Caroline Chatfield.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

I live with my great aunt and go to school because there is no school where my parents live. She says she believes in young people having a good time but let me mention going somewhere and she changes her tune. The trouble is she is two generations back of me and doesn't know times have changed.

I am not allowed to spend my money for movies or magazines, yet I am expected to be contented at home. My girl friends are scared to death of her and won't come to see me. I can't go to parties or movies with girls and boys, or even with girls. Although I'm 17 I can't have dates and I have been terribly embarrassed before boys who have tried to get dates with me. Honestly I have been so humiliated that I dread to go to school these days.

ANXIOUS.

ANSWER:

Child, your parents are unwittingly to blame for this state of affairs and only they can help you. You should ask them to write your aunt what privileges they are willing for you to have. Certainly they won't object to your having dates on week ends and holidays, going to parties at homes of your friends and to movies with your friends.

Before you write to your parents, sit down and have a heart-to-heart talk with Auntie. Explain to her that you realize what a big responsibility she has in taking care of a young girl and you want to be considerate and co-operative in every way. After you have made your peace with her, you can bring up the subject of unreasonable restrictions and suggest that you submit the question to your parents. After this she won't resent your appeal to the higher court. If she does, your parents should make other living arrangements for you.

Education is the most important thing in a young girl's life and, if sacrifices are necessary to get the education, she should make them. But needless sacrifices of her gal fun which sour her disposition and leave a dark brown taste in her mouth won't advance the cause of education nor start her on the road to success.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

I've gone with her long enough to know she's the right one and in many little ways she gives me the impression that she's found the right one in me. But she won't let me kiss her. Mother says she's the rare old-fashioned type that expects a declaration before she permits the liberties. But honestly that sounds funny to me. Surely she should know that my wanting to kiss her meant I was interested and, if she felt the same she would want to kiss me. Isn't that right? I'm hoping for an answer that will get me off to a good start.

G. B.

ANSWER:

I'd say mother knows best this time and if there were museums for model maidens your girl should be housed in one. The modern maidens say a kiss amounts to nothing—just like a handshake. Well you see, young man, how much a kiss amounts to when you can't get it. You see how desirable a gal can make herself by keeping her kisses until the psychological moment. I'm thinking that before you break down the resistance of this gal you've got to break down and tell her you love her, which, after all, is not such an ordeal for a fellow with the fever.

You'd Better Diet Alone-- Or You'll Be Dining Alone

By Ida Jean Kain.

Next time you go out to dinner with a man—eat! It seems that man's pet aversion is the woman who is "on a diet." He probably likes to do the ordering. And when he asks what you like, it is patently your cue to say, "Why, you order, Cary?" assuming Mr. Grant is our escort—and believe me, he won't miss a calorie.

But, if you know what's good for you, you'll eat! Eating is manifestly a social function. Dieting is something you do alone. Like crying. Unless you want to insult your host, you will enjoy your food so that he can feel he has made the evening a success.

If your man is a gourmand, you may take it for granted that he considers himself a gourmet. But if you diet while he dines, he is not so sure—and it is upsetting to his peace of mind.

The thumbs-down policy on dieting is merely another of man's enduring inconsistencies. Most of them put a woman permanently on the fence. When a man proclaims that he likes to see a woman eat, she has to read his mind to know that what he really means is he doesn't want to see her diet. That is an entirely different matter. And when a man avers that he likes a girl to have "some meat on her bones," it only takes a bit of sleuthing to discover that the ones he takes out are streamlined!

The smart thing, aside from courtesy, is to spare your friends as much of your diet as possible. Too much fanfare is made about diet in the first place! The whole thing has been played up too much. A girl can keep her weight under control simply as a matter of habit. There are few basic rules which, in the long run, determine whether or not the weight stays where it belongs.

One of the first of these is the habit of trimming the fat from the meat. That can be done any time—and it should be! You can have twice as much lean meat for the same number of calories that you can if the fat were left on. Another keeping-svelte tip is to limit the meaty liquids to one glass per meal and that applies to all liquids. If you wash the food down with water, it stimulates the appetite, stretches the stomach, and makes room for more food.

Closely connected with this rule is one which restricts the use of salt. Salt sparingly to keep slim. In the first place, salt makes you thirsty. Moreover, it holds water in the tissues—it makes you water-logged!

One of the never-to-be-broken rules should be: Fruit for dessert. If you take any other kind, stick to the low-calorie group. Many gourmets prefer cheese with fruit, sherberts, or such delicacies as grapefruit with brandy. None of these is high in calories.

You won't be popular if you diet when you are invited to dine—but you're not as likely to be invited to dine late—a-tete if you are fat! The best solution is to make a habit of the keeping-slim rules that cut down on calories without advertising your diet.

"LIFE BEGINS AT 80."

Samuel D. Cox, 85-year-old Camden (N. J.) park guard, debunks the adage that life begins at 40 and believes that a man does not feel real chipper until he's 70 or 80. Cox recently had been offered to quit service because of failing eyesight.

Perfume Odor Assures You Of Femininity

By Lillian Mae.

When you hear of a perfume that is also a deodorant—or a deodorant that is also a perfume, you are skeptical, aren't you?

Well, I was, too. Opening the bottle I found it had a very pleasant scent. In fact, I recognized as the fragrance of a perfume of which I am particularly fond. Of course, the cost is less than that of perfume. But I couldn't believe it would be very good as a deodorant.

But, we are all due for a surprise occasionally, and I found quite a big one here. Regardless of the season, the well-groomed person must use a deodorizing agent. And when one is found that does its work perfectly and at the same time acts as a light perfume—about like that of toilet water—that is something else.

This one neutralizes the odor of perspiration, though it does not stop its flow—for that would be injurious indeed. It is non-irritating—may be used on all parts of body—and if allowed to dry before dressing, positively will not stain your garments.

If you wish to use perfume also, you may purchase this perfume-deodorant in an odor which will harmonize with any one of more than 30 fragrances. Just mention your perfume when purchasing the deodorant. And not only feminine fragrances, but there are a number that are distinctly masculine—remindful of boots, saddles, etc. If you buy it for a man, you can be sure that he will be enthusiastic about it.

The flask-shaped bottle has a shaker top which prevents waste. Or it may be used with an atomizer.

One must be very careful of the deodorant used, and I would never recommend to you one that I had not used myself, and found successful. I believe you'll like this one. Phone me for the name. Or if you do not live in Atlanta write me, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

Write Letters That Are Gay And Colorful

Do you feel doubtful about the letters you send? After working so hard over an important note, do you wonder if it's dull or crude?

You can easily write delightful, friend-winning letters when you know a few simple rules.

Number One. Instead of writing "rubber stamp" remarks, chat about everyday happenings of interest to you and your correspondent. Then you'll not bore with a dull "I'm well and hope you're the same." You'll bubble along with "It's spring! Dad's shining the jalopy. Mom's planting flowers. I'm darning in the sun. And you, I suppose, are thinking about new fishing tackle and bigger and better fish."

Number Two. Write warmly, colorfully. Slip in your friend's name now and then. Instead of writing "We'd like to have you visit us," start cheerfully: "We've just done over the guest room. Mary, in pink roses and dotted swiss. Can't we lure you away from the stuffy town?"

Rule Number Three. Make your letter well-groomed. Choose unruled stationery in white, cream, gray or a pale tint. Check up on doubtful points of grammar, etiquette.

No danger then of saying, "He told me girls." You write correctly. "He told us girls." Addressing a widow, you write "Mrs. John Smith," not Mrs. Mary Smith.

Make all your letters charming with the help of our 40-page booklet, HOW TO WRITE LETTERS FOR ALL OCCASIONS. Has tips on vocabulary, grammar, letter etiquette. Gives sample letters for many business and social occasions—among them letters of congratulation, introduction, appreciation, thank-you notes, invitations, love letters.

Send 15c in coin for our booklet, HOW TO WRITE LETTERS FOR ALL OCCASIONS, to Home Institute, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

Job More Interesting.

A Swiss concern which has been paying five men for four years to bore a hole into the rock of the Jura has hired five more men to bore the same hole now that war has come to Europe.

Four years ago the boring was begun when it was believed that there might be oil in the region. The promoters of the enterprise agreed to bore down 3,500 meters (11,480 feet) before they abandoned hope.

They still had 1,300 meters (4,265 feet) to go and were making only 33 centimeters (about a foot) a day when the European war raised the price of gasoline so high that the backers put on an extra shift of drillers to work by night.

MY DAY: Visit to Michigan State College

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

KOKOMO, Ind.—We reached Lansing, Mich., yesterday afternoon in time for me to have a chat with the Democratic vice chairman of the State Central Committee, Mrs. Helen, and the head of the Eleanor Roosevelt League, Mrs. De Vitis. Then we had an hour drive around the campus of Michigan State College.

These wonderful state universities are a constant surprise and a matter of great pride to me. This college has the distinction of being the one where agriculture was first taught for college credits. Many of the people who have made names for themselves in other parts of the country received their education here. Mr. Liberty Hyde Bailey, of Cornell fame, and Mr. Ulysses Prentiss Hedrick, of the Geneva Experiment Station in New York state, both came from this university.

Michigan State College has evidently taken every advantage which the federal government offered it. The number of buildings which have gone up during the past few years is really extraordinary. They have a perfect little music building, an athletic building which will be the envy of many universities, dormitories and many other buildings.

They tell me that a boy or girl can go through the university on $500 a year. They have made good use of NYA grants and the college also gives a great many work opportunities because, like nearly all state universities, a great many young people work their way through, and what is more, live on bread and milk to do it.

I did not have time to visit any WPA or NYA projects, but the results of one of the NYA projects was brought to me at the hotel after my lecture. It was a delicious smoked turkey which the NYA directors from Wisconsin had taken with them. They are training boys in both Wisconsin and Michigan in work which may augment the cash incomes on farms on original land.

When we awakened in Chicago this morning, we discovered that Illinois had a sleetstorm during the night. Trees and shrubs and winter grasses in the field are encased in ice. It is very beautiful to look at, but not so pleasant when you have to drive about. We went slowly through the streets of Chicago for our breakfast at the Stevens hotel and now we are on our way to Kokomo, Ind.

Everywhere I go I am hearing more about the project which the professional and service department of WPA is planning for the week of April 22 to 27. They are hoping for 20,000,000 visitors to their projects during that week. They will open the week with a 25-cent dinner where they hope sponsors, workers and staff members will sit down together and listen to a national broadcast and prepare for the coming week, in which every community, we hope, will become acquainted with what it is getting through the work done on WPA.

Crisply Tailored

By Barbara Bell.

This charming little frock has such a beguilingly flattering figure, and it looks so crisply tailored, that you can appropriately make it up in spun rayon or thin wool for rumabout, as well as in gingham or percale for round-the-house. Its piquant simplicity looks especially attractive in gay prints and high shades, punctuated by buttons and braid. Full over the bosom, high-shouldered, with a tiny waist finished by a sash bow, pattern 1909-B is just about as new and becoming as it can be—definite proof that, be it ever so simple, everything you wear this spring has to be very feminine and pretty.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1909-B is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 and 40. Corresponding bust measurements 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 14 (32) requires 3 3/4 yards of 36-inch material without nap; 1 5/8 yards yards.

Price of pattern 15 cents, book 15 cents. Mail orders to Barbara Bell Pattern Department, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

Be Careful of Drugs, Stimulants You Take

By Dr. William Brady.

Chronic acetanilide poisoning is a fairly frequent consequence of the indiscriminate use of various nostrums containing acetanilide (or phenacetine or antipyrine or aminopyrine, all of which coaltar derivatives are virtually the same in effect). The drug is the essential ingredient of a large number of headache powders or tablets, grip or "cold" tablets, migraine and neuralgia remedies, neuritis, rheumatism, fatigue, exhaustion, sea sickness, and what have you—it is immaterial what ails you, the effect of a dose of acetanilide is to lessen your consciousness of discomfort or distress. Hence the addiction.

An addict resorts to his favorite drug for the sake of the transitory "stimulation" he gets from it—not true stimulation, of course, not actual increase or improvement of function, but just an illusion of betterment, such an illusion as the victim of alcoholic intoxication experiences when he has absorbed enough alcohol to numb his consciousness, his judgment, good sense and self-control.

Acetanilide gives that illusion to the individual who uses it frequently or constantly. But the drug really is depressant not only to the central nervous system but, what is most important, to the heart.

It is indeed odd, not to say ironical, that our Yankee law and custom sternly demands a poison label on tincture of iodine, with which it is difficult to kill yourself even if you try, yet benignly sanctions the indiscriminate sale of acetanilide in all sorts of nostrums purporting to be harmless, notwithstanding the many instances on record where coroners' inquests have returned verdicts of death from acetanilide taken innocently in one or another of these dangerous nostrums. It is remarkable, too, how silent the medical and health authorities are today about this peril.

The characteristic symptoms produced by chronic acetanilide poisoning or addiction are fatigue, headache, anemia, loss of weight and a peculiar dusky bluish discoloration of the skin and lips and nails (called cyanosis). There is considerable quibbling in our present day "scientific" medical literature over the precise cause of this cyanosis, that is, whether it is due to methemoglobin or to a brownish discoloration of the blood by a decomposition product of the acetanilide. The important point is that acetanilide unquestionably causes progressive decrease in the number of red corpuscles and interferes with the vital oxygen-carrying function of the hemoglobin in the blood. To this anemia I attribute the grave undermining of physical and mental health in cases of acetanilide addiction, as well as the fatalities from a dose or a few doses of acetanilide in numerous recorded cases.

If I were to use any pain-killer at all for relief of headache I'd choose aspirin, any brand or make available, as much less dangerous and injurious to health than the coaltar derivatives in any circumstance. Nor does it take the curse off from acetanilide, phenacetine, antipyrine or aminopyrine to mix it with a stimulant. There is no stimulant which antidotes these poisons.

D.A.R. To Receive Historical Books

Today at 11:30 o'clock, at Rhodes Memorial hall, a priceless collection of historical books, containing records compiled by the chapters of the National Society, D. A. R., throughout Georgia, will be presented to Mrs. Harrison Hightower, D. A. R. state regent. Mrs. W. F. Dykes, chairman of the Lucy Cook Peel Memorial committee of the state D. A. R., will be in charge of the presentation exercises.

Mrs. Owen C. McConnell, regent of the Atlanta chapter, D. A. R., will present to Mrs. Dykes the genealogical books given by the Atlanta chapter for the collection. In presenting the books, Mrs. Dykes will refer to the wonderful store of records collected by Mrs. Eli Thomas, D. A. R. state chairman of Bible and family records. The data, together with the colonial and Indian records compiled by Mrs. J. E. Hays, state historian, will be presented by Mrs. Dykes to Mrs. Hightower. Mrs. Hightower will accept the collection in the name of the Georgia society, D. A. R. The books will be placed permanently in Rhodes Memorial hall.

There are many volumes of the "McCall Collections," containing unpublished family genealogies and wills collected and compiled by Mrs. Howard H. McCall, a member of this committee. Many unpublished family histories have been donated by members of the Georgia D. A. R. Also included are the eight volumes of Revolutionary soldiers of South Carolina by S. Sally, state historian of South Carolina.

The Lucy Cook Peel memorial committee, a memorial to the late Mrs. William Lawson Peel, founder and first regent of the Joseph Habersham Chapter, D. A. R., of which Mrs. W. F. Dykes also served as regent, has also published four books of unpublished records—the Georgia D. A. R. Historical Collections—under Mrs. Dykes, the late Mrs. J. C. Gentry as chairman, assisted by Mrs. Walter Scott Wilson, of Savannah, and Mrs. Grace Gilliam Davidson, of Quitman. This committee has also donated several volumes of unpublished records to the National Society, D. A. R.

In 1914, the Georgia D. A. R., realizing the necessity of a state department of archives, presented a bill to create a department to the legislature that year, but it was not until 1918 during the regency of Mrs. Howard H. McCall that the D. A. R. was successful in having the bill passed. The State Department of Archives was created on January 1, 1919. Lucian Lamar Knight, the gifted au-

Senators To Test Case's Arm Today

ORLANDO, Fla., March 14.—(P) The Washington Senators' center-fielder George Case will test his throwing arm, lame for the last three weeks of the 1939 season, against the Cleveland Indians tomorrow.

Another casualty, Kendall Chase, pitcher, has been limping about with an ailing toe, but the Senators planned to pitch him against the Giants in a Grapefruit league ball game next Sunday.

Call in The Game

by Jack Troy

He's Right SAVANNAH, Ga., March 14.—Every day a certain Savannah baseball fan sits in the Indians' dugout and watches the Crackers work out.

He was sitting there yesterday while Slug Richards was hitting to the infield. The infield was drilling on double plays. No one was saying anything in the dugout, so intent was everyone in watching the snappy work of Roy Smith, Alf Anderson, Connie Ryan and Lester Burge.

There was one particularly lightning-like twin killing, and the Savannah fan suddenly observed—
"Well, there's one man the Indians won't get this year."
He was referring to 19-year-old Connie Ryan.

Earl Mann laughed.
"You can say that again, brother," he replied. "That Ryan's all right, isn't he?"

The interest of the Savannah man in the Crackers was explained.

It seems he has been watching the club daily for the past three springs just to get an idea what good players the Savannah Indians might get from Atlanta.

And he thinks the Indians will do pretty well this season because of the unusual number of fine rookies on the Atlanta roster.

He is disappointed, however, because Ryan looks too good to be sent out.

Throws Strikes As Manager Paul Richards observed last week, Ryan undoubtedly is the finest second base prospect the Crackers have had in many years.

Richards said he was the finest he had seen since he has been with the Atlanta club.

Ryan has the perfect second baseman's arm. He gets a ball away very fast, throwing either underhand or overhand. He throws strikes on double plays.

What gets observers is that Ryan shows daily improvement.

The Savannah infield is rough and balls take bad bounces. But it simply accentuates the quickness of Ryan. He follows a ball like a cat.

Ryan provides the camp's best story. He came here as a kid with no pro experience and with very few outside of President Mann and Manager Paul Richards thinking he would be good enough to play second base for Atlanta.

After all, few 19-year-old boys with no pro experience are expected to turn out as well as Ryan is doing.

It's hardly necessary to climb out on a limb in Ryan's

COTHRAN BEATS BETTY JAMESON TO GAIN FINALS

Dorothy Holds Two-Up Advantage Over Glenna at Turn.

By DOROTHY KIRBY.
BELLEVUE, Fla., March 14.—Well, here I am in the same position I was last year—that of being a finalist. However, I don't want to blow my chances as I did last time by playing terrible golf.

I think perhaps I won the match from Glenna Collett Vare today on the first three holes when we halved the first, and then I won the second and got a lucky half on the third. That put me 1 up, whereas in most of my matches I get down on the first few holes played, and then have a hard struggle getting them back.

Glenna wasn't up to her usual form of hitting the ball, and that was a break for me. The medal scores for the first few holes were about equal. It has got where I have to play a shot out of some kind of water in about every match.

This morning I dubbed a three-iron shot something awful and

United States To Enter If Finns Hold Olympics

NEW YORK, March 14.—(UP) The United States will participate in the Olympic games if they are held this year in Helsinki, Finland, the United Press learned today.

Olympic officials have been going ahead with plans to participate in the games, despite the fact that because of the war most of the world felt Finland would give up the games.

"We are ready to move ahead at full speed if we receive word that the games will be held," an official said.

HELSENKI, March 14.—(UP) Friends of J. W. Rangel, member of the international Olympic committee and president of the Finnish organizing committee, said today they believed there was small chance Finland would hold the Olympic games this year.

Finland, under Olympic rules, has until April 1 to make its decision. It was understood that Rangel had privately advanced two reasons why there was little chance of the games being held:

1. Most of the Finnish Olympic committee members are presently occupied with military duties.

2. The games would represent an enormous financial drain on Finland, especially with all available money needed for more urgent purposes, such as relief and reconstruction of devastated areas.

Dodd Won't Take Vandy Job, Belief

Rumor Has Dodd, Sanders Top Candidates; Moore Interviewed.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 14.—(P)—A. C. (Scrappy) Moore, head football coach at the University of Chattanooga, was interviewed today by the Vanderbilt committee designated to nominate a successor to Ray Morrison.

In keeping with its policy, the committee merely announced that Moore had appeared for consultation. The committee is under instructions to "survey the field" before recommending anyone for the position. Members said Moore was not an applicant but came to Nashville at their invitation.

Beyond saying "I appreciate being interviewed and given consideration for the position," Bobby Dodd withheld comment on the Vanderbilt coaching situation.

Sources strongly indicated he would not accept the head coach job at the Commodore school if it is offered, but will remain as backfield coach at Georgia Tech.

Moore was the fourth prospect to be interviewed. Others were Putty Overall, of Tennessee Polytechnic Institute; Henry (Red) Sanders, of Louisiana State; and Bobby Dodd, assistant to Bill Alexander at Georgia Tech.

The committee has guarded carefully its dealings with the men interviewed, but unofficial reports persisted that the ultimate choice lay between Sanders and Dodd.

MULLOY UPSETS DONALD McNEILL

HAMILTON, Bermuda, March 14.—(AP)—Don McNeill, of Oklahoma City, today bowed out of the Bermuda tennis championships in which he was first-seeded, a victim of the faultless play of Gardner Mulloy, of Miami, Fla. The scores were 6-6, 3-6, 6-6.

Mulloy, third seeded, played a cagey game of tennis in winning. He won the first set by passing McNeill at the net continually, lost the second when Don matched him stroke for stroke from the baselines, then won the third when he lured McNeill into his first set weakness.

Women's singles:
Pauline Betz, Los Angeles, defeated Helen Fenderson, Stamford, Conn., 6-0, 6-3.
Mrs. Sarah P. Fabryan defeated Crayon Wheeler, Santa Monica, Cal., 7-5, 6-0.
Men's singles:
Gardner Mulloy, Miami, defeated Don McNeill, Oklahoma City, 6-6, 3-6, 6-6.
Edward Cooke, Portland, Ore., defeated Henry Profoss, Seattle, 6-1, 6-1.

BIG EX-JACKET EXHIBITS GOOD KNUCKLE-BALL

Lewis Has Enough Wildness to Keep Batters Footloose.

By JACK TROY.
SAVANNAH, Ga., March 14.—Lewis Carpenter, bespectacled right-hander, may be a regular on the Cracker pitching staff this summer.

The former Georgia Tech pitcher has a fine assortment of stuff, including a knuckle ball reminiscent of Emil Leonard's. The fact that Carpenter is an A man isn't a disadvantage, because the Crackers have only 10 A men. Southern league rules allow 11.

The Cracker batters could name several pitchers they had rather hit against than Carpenter who has a lot of speed and is a trifle wild.

He's not too wild. Just enough to keep the boys footloose. He throws sidearm a great deal and it's an effective delivery.

The Woodstock, Ga., boy has had enough experience. He broke in at Louisville, Ky., under Bert Niehoff. He pitched one season for Louisville and part of another.

He pitched for Louisville, Macon and Gadsden last season. Carpenter, with his slight wildness, speed and sidearm delivery, ought to prove torrid under the lights. There was rain today but not enough to prevent the Crackers from getting in another workout. There was a lot of legwork.

After tomorrow's workout the Crackers will swing into their exhibition game schedule, playing Baltimore Saturday and Sunday here.

Drake 'Overworks' Arm in Training.

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 14.—Tom Drake, one of the Crackers' ace right-handers, had to go to a doctor yesterday about his arm. Drake, one of the hardest workers in camp, came up with an elbow injury. The arm was swollen almost twice its normal size.

The doctor's report indicates he will have to take it easy for a while. There seems to be nothing seriously wrong with Drake's arm. He simply has been overdoing things in training.

Sharp Shootin'

AL SHARP

Jennings Gordon, the tall golfer from Rome, Ga., brought up an interesting subject while we were talking the other day down at Thomasville.

"It's funny, but it's true," remarked Jennings. "You know Alvin Everett, the southpaw at Rome. Well, he was a right-hander and I was playing left-handed when we started a long time ago."

"Both of us switched at the same time. Alvin started swinging from the port side and I switched to right-handed clubs about 13 years ago."

Everything turned out all right in their cases. Both developed their adopted swings. Two years ago Gordon was runner-up in the Southern amateur at Ponte Vedra, Fla., losing to Carl Dann Jr., of Orlando. Last year Everett came through to take the National Left-Handed Golfers' tournament after being runner-up several times.

Incidentally, Everett became one of the longest drivers in the southpaw ranks. And he can hold his own with the fellows who swing from the right side, too. Last fall we watched him knock three balls out of sight to win a driving contest at the Dalton Invitational.

The Rome players' success is not rare. Many caddies start as left-handers and later switch when they find it hard to get clubs.

Jimmy Demaree, sensational winter circuit player, is one of them. Tommy Wright, the Knoxville pro, is another. Tommy can still play left-handed. He proved it by beating a Knoxville sports writer, not so many months ago.

Wright is the youngster who put together a 64 and 68 to set a record of 132 while qualifying for the National Open at East Lake a couple of years ago.

Speaking of those who have changed leads right into the club-jacket of those who switch when the pressure is on, Tom White, Memphis player, stands on the wrong side of the ball for puts up to four feet when the going is tough.

White tried for more than 20 years to win the Tennessee Amateur meet. Three times a runner-up, White came through in 1935. His puts from the wrong side were a big factor.

"Changing over keeps my wrists from locking," was Tom's explanation.

Maybe those fellows have something. Hey, caddy, bring us a set of left-handed clubs.

Racing Roundup

NEW YORK, March 14.—W. H. Gallagher's Wise Bee stepped up the track in record equalling time winning the Homestead Purse today at Tropical Park.

Wise Bee stepped the five furlongs in 1:04, the same time Mr. Sponger made in creating the local mark seven years ago.

The Wise Counselor colt registered by five lengths to pay $7.10. The Shady Broom farm's Connaught was second, a head victor over J. O. Keene's Hutoka, the early rascaller. Charliefield, the odds-on favorite, lacked his usual early foot and finished fourth.

Wise Bee kept within a length or so of Hutoka to the stretch, where he turned on blistering steam and swept into complete command, winning as his rider, Freddie Smith, pleaded. Connaught rallied in time to wear down the tiring Hutoka.

J. A. Blackwell's Miss Ethel romped over the Oaklawn course in 1:39 1-5 to win the featured fourth, a test for 3-year-olds.

The Pop was second, followed by Trim Stepper, a chestnut filly, owned by H. Nellor.

The winner paid $6.20.

Golfer Offers 119-Mile Taxi Ride to Opponent

Charlie Yates Reports Augusta Course in Great Shape For Coming Masters' Tournament April 4.

By AL SHARP.
D. S. (Dick) Kerr, former Chattanooga who has moved to Atlanta, is credited with pulling one that Ripley should appreciate.

An ardent golfer, Kerr had an enjoyable game one afternoon at Chattanooga. The man against whom he was playing couldn't hit his hat.

After Dick had pressed his wallet until it would go into his pocket, he looked up at his opponent and remarked:

"If you'll just let me know where you're going to be at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning I'll send a taxi after you to bring you out here."

The next day Kerr got a phone call. "I had to go to Knoxville today," said his gracious opponent.

"Oh, that's all right," replied Dick, anticipating another pleasant round. "Just wait a minute and I'll send that taxi by. It's only 119 miles."

Charlie Yates was back from Augusta yesterday, enthusiastic about "the splendid condition of the Augusta National course."

"In spite of the cold weather and rains, the course is in fine shape," said Charlie, who collected a pair of 67's during the club members' annual jamboree. "That wasn't as hot as it sounds," added the modest Charlie, "because we were not putting out on every hole. When my partner was in on a hole I picked up."

"The Masters will be a swell tournament again. Bud Ward, the National Amateur champion; Bill Holt and Wilford Wehrle are definitely planning to be there. The amateur field should be bigger and better than usual."

Charlie, former British Amateur champion, and Bob Jones will represent Atlanta in the Battle of the Masters, April 4-7, if Bob's shoulder ailment clears up in time.

Orr Club Quintets To Battle Tonight

The Fritz Orr Club basketball teams, in the Giant class, will battle tonight for the club championship. The Green Tigers will play the Red Devils and the Black Cats. Bill Ebersole leads the Blue Birds, Tommy Schneider directs the Green Tigers and A. B. Martin is leader of the Red Devils.

AMERICUS, Ga., March 14.—Howard Lilliston, golf pro at the Americus Golf Club for the past five years, has accepted a similar position with the Montezuma Golf Club. Mr. Lilliston, with his wife and two children, will move to their new location April 1.

Tom Hafey Reaches Camp

Third Baseman Says He Was Delayed by Poison Oak.

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 14.—Tom Hafey, slugging Cracker third baseman, checked in tonight and had a plausible excuse for being four days late in reaching the training camp.

"I had poison oak on my arms," Hafey explained, "and I couldn't leave home until Monday." Hafey lives in Berkeley, Cal., home town of Emil Muir.

"I told Emil I would leave in time to reach camp last Monday, but the poison oak changed my schedule. It has just about cleared up now."

BRINGS BROTHER. With Hafey was his strapping young brother, Will, a first baseman, who will be given a trial.

Manager Richards didn't talk tonight with Hafey, who will work out with the Crackers for the first time tomorrow.

He will hear Hafey's excuse for being late then. And, under the circumstances, it is quite likely no fine will be assessed against him for not reporting on time.

IN GOOD SHAPE. Hafey revealed tonight that he has been working out during the winter and figures he is in fairly good shape.

Big Tom played most of last season with the Giants. The season before with Knoxville he led the Southern League in home runs, hitting 24.

Chances are he'll break into the lineup against Baltimore Saturday with only a day of practice.

Paul Dean Says He Won't Retire

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 14.—(P)—Paul Dean, the "Daffy" of baseball's celebrated and eccentric pitching combination, isn't going to retire this spring after all. Manager Bill Terry of the New York Giants announced today.

"He told me," said Terry, "he had reconsidered his retirement announcement and was convinced he could again pitch winning ball. He expects to arrive Monday."

The Dean announcement was only a mild ripple in the Giants' camp as Boss Terry drove his charges hard for their game with the Yankees in St. Petersburg tomorrow.

DEAL EXPECTED BEFORE SEASON GETS UNDER WAY

Every Phase of Sale Developed Except Approval of League.

NEW YORK, March 14.—(P)—The baseball empire of the New York Yankees, estimated at worth $6,000,000 to $10,000,000 and frequently reported for sale since the death of Colonel Jacob Ruppert a year ago, may be transferred to a syndicate headed by Governor Francis P. Murphy, of New Hampshire, before the season opens next month.

Murphy, located in Boston tonight, confirmed the fact that he has been negotiating for control of the club and would have a personal interest in it.

Several details must be ironed out before the transaction is completed, he said, but in New York it was believed virtually every phase of the sale had been developed except obtaining approval of the other clubs in the American league.

APPROVAL EXPECTED.

There was no reason to expect that this would be withheld. All officials of the Yankees were in Florida and the only one who could be reached for comment was President Edward G. Barrow, who denied that any new negotiations were under way, but admitted: "All that is handled by Byron Clark," for many years personal attorney for Colonel Ruppert and one of the directors of the ball club.

Governor Murphy, a prominent shoe manufacturer in Manchester, N. H., has been an ardent baseball fan for many years. He was defeated this week in an election of delegates to the Republican national convention and some of his friends expect that he will return from politics if this deal is completed.

Interested in Braves. Murphy at one time was a stockholder of the Boston National league club, then known as the Braves, and his name was linked with it as a possible purchaser when it got into financial difficulties.

He is a close friend of Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy and both their names have been mentioned in recent months in connection with a sale of the Yanks.

The New York Sun also discovered today that James J. Walker, former mayor of New York and father of the Sunday baseball law in this state, had been approached by three different persons asking him to head a group to buy the club.

Arrangements still "are on the fire," he told the paper, but added that he would consider the proposition only if Barrow was permitted to remain as president, or executive head, of the baseball system, which includes Newark, Kansas City and many other minor league teams.

BEES BEAT CARDS. BRADENTON, Fla., March 14.—(P)—The St. Louis Cardinals and the Boston Bees divided 24 hits in their exhibition game today but the Bees won, 6-4. The Cards were ahead going into the last half of the seventh inning, but the Bees rallied with three runs before the umpire ended the game because of rain.

TIGERS TRAMPLE DODGERS. LAKELAND, Fla., March 14.—(P)—Coming from behind in the last three innings today, the Detroit Tigers trampled the Brooklyn Dodgers, 10-3, in their first exhibition game of the training season. The Tigers scored four runs in the seventh inning and two in the eighth to overcome a one-run deficit. The Reds out hit the Yanks, nine to eight, but the New York Yankees, bunched blows to make three runs in the fourth inning and one in the fifth. Babe Dahlgren homered in the eighth.

ST. PETERSBURG. March 14.—(P)—The New York Yankees ran their winning exhibition streak to four games today, downing the Cincinnati Reds, 3-3. The Reds out hit the Yanks, nine to eight, but the New York Yankees, bunched blows to make three runs in the fourth inning and one in the fifth. Babe Dahlgren homered in the eighth.

RED SOX WORK OUT. SARASOTA, Fla., March 14.—(P)—The Boston Red Sox went through a fast workout today in preparation for their exhibition tilt tomorrow with the Brooklyn Dodgers at Clearwater.

Manager Joe Cronin singled with a cold for the past few days, expects to be back in the lineup tomorrow at his shortstop berth. However, he turned thumbs down on Jim Tabor playing, insisting the baseman third baseman must wait until his badly cut finger heals.

CUBS ROUT CHISOX. LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 14.—(P)—The Chicago Cubs scored 13 runs in the first two innings of their exhibition game today with their city rivals, the White Sox, and were never headed, the National leaguers winning, 14-7. The Cubs made five errors, but the White Sox failed to profit there.

TRAVIS HINDERED BY COLD. LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 14.—(P)—Babe Dahlgren, slugging first-string catcher, was held out of the first-string training job with the Little Rock Travelers this morning, notified Manager Herb Bretz today that he would be here Sunday.

Cold weather continued to put a crimp in training activities, which were limited to conditioning exercises. Batting practice is scheduled to start tomorrow. Pitcher Bob Katz, with Rocky Mount last year, joined the squad today.

POFFENBERGER REPORTS. SANFORD, Fla., March 14.—Boots Poffenberger, pitching ace recently signed by Nashville (Tenn.) Vols, who has been a w.o.l. since the training camp opened a week ago, made his appearance today.

The hurler, counted on by Manager Larry Gilbert as a regular this season, failed to show up last Sunday and had been expected today.

STILES, ASHE REFUSE TERMS. DELAND, Fla., March 14.—The Chattanooga battery corps stepped through the first spring training drill today with only two moundsmen absent because of contract troubles.

Lena Stiles, acquired from Jersey City during the winter, and Kenneth Ashe, purchased from Buffalo, refuse to accept terms in time for the first drill.

SMOKIES DRILL LIGHTLY. VALDOSTA, Ga., March 14.—Manager Neil Caldwell confined today's workout for the battersmen in the Knoxville Smokies' camp to a short exercise drill after a steady rain made the diamond unfit for practice.

Infielders and outfielders will join the squad tomorrow.

SAVANNAH BOUT. SAVANNAH, Ga., March 14.—(P)—Tommy Kiene, Savannah pride, and Aurel Toma of Hungary, will meet here March 28 in a boxing match which will determine which will win tenth ranking in the national bantamweight list.

Charlie Yates' 67 in Southern Intercollegiate Golf Tournament Still Best Competitive Round; Carden, Page Best Jacket Grid Prospects.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.
Dixie Sports Shots: Wyatt Posey and Lamar Davis, two Georgia grid stars, will have their tonsils yanked this morning. Posey just recovered from a broken leg and had barely enough time for a couple of scrimmages before entering the hospital again. Charlie Yates played in the first Southern Intercollegiate golf tournament at Athens, and fired a 67 over the par 73 course to win medal honors. That is the best score of the tournament thus far and the best competitive round ever recorded on the tough 18-hole layout.

WOODY BLASTS 'CHAMP' REESE
Table Tennis Finals in Six Divisions Slated Tonight.
Ed Woody, city champion, showed last night why he is rated among the leaders in the national table tennis picture as he defeated Marion "Champ" Reese in three straight games in the semi-finals of the Georgia State Table Tennis Championships at the Lucky Strike courts.

Displaying a complete mastery of the game, Woody ran through the three games, 21-11, 21-14 and 21-12. Cautiously he maneuvered the conservative Reese out of position to make numerous blasting "kills." Woody was unable to play the state title tonight, Magill and Besser tie up in their semi-finals battle in the first match scheduled tonight.

Mrs. Ragland Dobbins and John McCrae swept to the finals of the mixed doubles by winning two fast matches. They defeated Earl S. Salville and Mary Granger, 21-17, 21-9, and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Gordon, 21-10, 21-10, 21-19. They meet Marian Shropshire and Marvin Nicholson, who defeated Malone and Carpenter, 21-14, 21-19, 21-19, for the title tonight.

KIRBY REACHES BELLEAIR FINALS

wound up in the creek, while Glenn was two in a trap just to the left of the fifth green, so I thought I would have a swing at the ball in the water and I put everything I had into the shot and, much to my amazement and enjoyment, the ball found the green and I had the hole.

So, between being in all of these sand traps and ditches, I should know how to execute such shots. As I mentioned yesterday, Glenn's weakness is that little quick hook she gets, and it came in again today, but during the round, costing her about every time. On the sixth hole she did something that I am always afraid of doing, and that is shanking. On her third shot she really shanked it, and after the hole was over she remarked that it was the first time she had ever done that. I had a 2-up lead at the turn. I am beginning to believe that practicing does help your game, for I truly worked hard during my little session yesterday.

PILLS UPSET. Jane Cochran pulled somewhat of an upset when she downed Betty Jameson by 4 and 2. I believe that today was the fourth time that those two have met and Jane had won two out of the three against Betty. She had one of her hot streaks and was out in only 38 strokes and had two birdies on the back nine. So Betty or anybody else could do no good with such shooting.

I am just hoping that tomorrow will be my hot day, for I haven't had a good score on that front nine yet, and if Jane continues at such a pace as today I will find myself in an awful spot. Betty has made about all of these winter tournaments, so she will be heading to Texas Saturday, while most of the other girls are Augusta-bound for the event there.

MAY BE CANCELLED. CARACAS, Venezuela, March 14.—(UP)—The 15-round bantamweight fight between Sixto Escobar, of Puerto Rico, former champion, and Simon Chavez, of Venezuela—scheduled for March 15—is expected to be canceled tomorrow. Escobar claims he will be unable to become acclimated by that time.

CARACAS, Venezuela, March 14.—(UP)—The Sixto Escobar-Simon Chavez fight, scheduled for March 26, was postponed to allow Escobar more time to train. Whether it will be held on April 7 or 14 will be determined later.

Record List of 193 Pairs Enter Constitution Pin Tourney

20 TEAMS SIGN TO BOOST LIST 21 OVER RECORD

Bowling Will Start at 11 O'Clock Saturday Morning.

The entry list for the eighth annual staging of The Atlanta Constitution's "St. Patrick's Day" doubles bowling tournament soared to a new world's record of 193 pairs of bowlers Thursday evening as 20 additional teams filed entry to complete Saturday. The first block of participants is scheduled at 11 o'clock.

Topping last year's record entry of 172 couples by 21 doubles teams, there is no doubt but that the predicted mark of 200 teams for the contest will be equaled by tomorrow morning.

The Brunswick-Balke-Collender Company have donated two special prizes for high games in the separate men and women's divisions of the tournament. John Thomas, southeastern branch manager, is donating three duckpin balls and a bag for the highest individual game bowled in the men's event and a similar award for the women's event.

SPECIAL PRIZES.

The special prizes are in addition to the gold medals that go to both winners in the handicap and non-league divisions. Eight medals will be presented to the winners Saturday evening, as the tourney draws to a close.

Many of the bowlers have "tournament fever" and are practicing daily in contemplation of rolling up some powerful counts.

The entry list will remain open until tournament time Saturday. Registration may be made at either the downtown Bick's Bowling Center, uptown Lucky Strike or the new Bowling Palace. Non-league games only will be bowled at the Bowling Palace, while the handicap and non-league divisions will both be scheduled at the uptown and downtown drives.

START AT ELEVEN.

The bowling will open at 11 o'clock Saturday morning and continue throughout the day with other starting times designated at 1:30, 5:00 and 7:30 p. m.

No entry fee is charged. You pay only the cost of the five games bowled in the competition by each individual.

Entries filed Thursday include A. J. Allen and Albert Wallace, G. M. and H. D. Myers, O. E. Myers and F. Veal, T. A. and Pat McCleskey, Bob French and Hugh Hallman, Joe Roebuck and Clark, J. M. Shropshire and O. M. Blanton, Mary Rice and Anne Adey, Virginia Hervey and Estelle Warrington, Augusta Smith and Laura Miller, Jewell Jones and Mamie Bates, Raleigh and Fred Moon, Dot Morris and Beke Bangert, Jane Bick and Sarah Garner, southeastern doubles champions, Jean Plant and Evelyn Bick, Lucille Rawlins and Rose McGuire, Lundy Dean and Sara Thomason, Hewell Higgins and Harvey Pittner, Joe Reeves and Paul Ivey, Dr. Hayward Phillips and Dr. Paul Key.

TO UMPIRE AGAIN.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 14.—(P)—Harry Reeder, Augusta businessman-umpire, who was forced to the baseball sidelines by illness two years ago, has recovered and will be calling 'em again this season in the South Atlantic league.

CLOSED SEASON?

HOMERVILLE, Ga., March 14.—(P)—Holding there is "grave and imminent danger of the total extinction of certain species of wild life" in the Clinch county area adjacent to the Okefenokee swamp, the county grand jury has recommended a three-year closed season on all hunting and trapping in this area.

KID OUTFIELDER HITS BALL HARD

Myron McCormick May Be McKechnie's Answer to Left Field Problem.

By WHITNEY MARTIN.

TAMPA, Fla., March 14.—(P)—The judgment may be a bit hasty, but some of the gentlemen who don't have to walk around a boat to decide it has two sides have come to the conclusion that young Myron McCormick is just the lad to play left field for the Cincinnati Reds.

They've seen just one side of him, but that's enough for them. They've seen a handsome, 190-pound six-footer while the day-lights out of the ball and race around centerfield, where Bill McKechnie has been playing him, like he was chasing gophers.

Yesterday, against the Cards, he got two spanking triples and a double, and that was just a sample of his work down here. Whether he is a morning glory who will wilt when the pitching gets hot remains to be seen, but Leo Miller, president of the Indianapolis club, who had him for three years, insists the boy will make the grade.

"I had him a year at Buffalo," Miller explains, "and he was at the Cleveland training camp in 1938, but Landis declared him a free agent on the grounds McCormick was covered up at Buffalo. Indianapolis signed him, and then I went to Indianapolis."

"He's a line drive hitter, and didn't get many home runs at Indianapolis as our fences there are 350 feet at the foul line and cut out sharply, so a long fly ball is just another out. He seems to be hitting the ball harder down here."

"I just hope I can make it," Myron says simply. "So far the pitching has been no different from what I looked at last year. I like centerfield, but will play anywhere they tell me."

Part of the skepticism concerning McCormick is due to the fact that, although he is a right-handed hitter, most of his hits have been to rightfield, with some fouls popping into the rightfield bleachers.

The theory is that he is striking late on fast balls, and that when the balls really get fast he'll be swinging at the echo.

The case of Charley Keller is cited, however, to refute that theory. Keller, a left-handed hitter, blasts them to all fields, but more often than not it is to left or center. He gets plenty of power in a late swing, and the same is true of McCormick. Some batters, including Joe DiMaggio, unconsciously wait until the last possible moment before offering at a pitch.

If McCormick does continue to hit, Skipper McKechnie can unlash his frown muscles. Left field seems to be his only major problem, not counting the Yankees, who aren't exactly a problem. They've the answer, the answer to a manager's prayer.

It is logically argued that both Bucky Walters and Paul Derringer can't be expected to turn in as many victories as they did last year, but Junior Thompson and Whitey Moore should be able to take up some of the slack, and a youngster named John Hutchings, with Pensacola last year, looks awfully good.

FAVORITES LOSE IN PRO-AMATEUR

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 14.—(P)—The team of Clyde Usina Jr. and Walter Burkemo provided the chief fireworks in the opening round today of the National Amateur professional match play best ball championship over the St. Augustine links.

Usina, a St. Augustine youth, who is now professional at West Palm Beach, and his amateur partner from Evanston, Ill., eliminated the highly-favored combine of Henry Picard, current P. G. A. champion, and Frank Ford, Charleston, S. C., one up. Picard and Ford won the event in 1937.

Other favored teams also fell by the wayside.

case. He's going to make the ball club.

Andy's Good Alf Anderson and Connie Ryan cover a lot of territory between them and they work together on double plays spectacularly.

Anderson comes across the bag fast to take the accurate snap throws of Ryan.

Ryan pivots and gets rid of the ball in the same motion when Anderson starts the play.

The Crackers unquestionably will have the Southern league's most colorful infield. Les Burge is a nifty first baseman now.

Roy Smith, who had a good year with Meridian in 1939, has been doing a creditable job of filling in at third base. But with Tom Hafey on the scene, a crack infield quartet is rounded out.

If nothing happens, the Crackers will have a defensive infield second to none in the Southern league.

Besides being a recognized slugger, Hafey is a hot-corner guardian of top ranking.

It was somewhat of a surprise the Giants were willing to let the Crackers have him in the Rucker deal. It was thought if the Giants didn't keep him he would be used by Bert Niehoff, at Jersey City.

RED CROSS FLAGS RAISED AS ANNUAL ROLL CALL OPENS

3,000 Workers Begin Campaign to Enlist Residents of Fulton and DeKalb Counties.

The Red Cross flag was raised over Five Points at noon yesterday, symbolizing the opening of the 1940 Red Cross roll call in Atlanta and Fulton and DeKalb counties, after which 3,000 volunteers took the field offering every citizen of the two counties an opportunity to join the great humanitarian army.

Immediately after the flag raising, Mrs. Preston S. Arkwright was enrolled as the first member and her membership card was dispatched to Washington headquarters via a carrier pigeon.

The roll call was opened by a parade down Peachtree street from the Masonic temple to Five Points, in which seven floats took the work of the organization.

Dr. Frank K. Boland, chairman of the Atlanta chapter, and Oby Brewer, chairman of the roll call committee, in speeches at Five Points, pleaded with Atlantans to join the Red Cross so as to help keep the services ever ready in these troubled times.

Similar sentiments were expressed by Murphy Candler, chairman of the DeKalb roll call, and Dr. Sam Guy, chairman of the DeKalb chapter.

Pledges of aid to the drive from the various governments were made by Harold Sheats, assistant county attorney, for Fulton county; Mrs. E. D. Rivers, wife of the Governor, on behalf of the state; and by Alderman Francis Reynolds for the city. Mayor B. F. Hurlless pledged the aid of the army.

The ceremonies yesterday opened the twenty-third annual roll call and it was the third opened with the flag-raising exercises at Five Points. With the slogan, "Keep the Red Cross Ready," the local workers are seeking 50,000 members in this area for 1940.

ARMAMENTS KING GIVEN SIX YEARS

Rumanian Convicted of Criminal Mismangement.

BUCHAREST, March 14.—(AP)—Rumania's armaments king, Max Auschnitt, today was convicted of criminal mismangement of the Resita Iron Works, sentenced to six years' imprisonment and ordered to pay approximately $816,000 to the firm.

Unless the case, which jarred the Balkans, is appealed within 10 days, Auschnitt will return to Resita securities valued at 18,000,000 French francs ($396,000), and 98,000 pounds sterling ($392,000) and 5,600,000 lei ($23,000) in cash.

In addition he was fined 20,000,000 lei ($80,000). Auschnitt was arrested in November and later smuggled a message out of jail to friends saying that in his cell "it will not be a case of suicide."

after a cold then what

DOCTORS stress remaining in bed until the body temperature is normal. Sound advice. You know how weak you feel after a cold. Cold may have in weakening the body. The story is well told in the blood picture. It is important to build back body strength right away to carry the load of work, worries, and loss of sleep. A weakened body may be more susceptible to relapse or long drawn out recovery.

Florida Railways War on Scalpers Of Train Tickets

MIAMI, Fla., March 14.—(AP)—Railroads with terminals in Miami, faced with their busiest season, have declared war on a new type ticket scalper—the one who buys up train reservations and sells them for a bonus to hurried tourists.

The scalping process has been possible because all through stream-liners to New York, for instance, are booked up for weeks in advance. The railroads offered to reimburse any patron for such "service charges."

Rev. E. F. Mapstone To Commute by Air From Toccoa for Services.

The Rev. E. F. Mapstone, Toccoa, this week will commute by airplane between his home and the East Lake Alliance tabernacle, where he will deliver a series of pre-Easter services.

At present directing the construction of what will be the largest Bible conference grounds in the southeast, sponsored by R. G. LeTourneau, Toccoa, the Rev. Mr. Mapstone will speak here Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights.

Between lectures he will fly back to Toccoa for his work with the conference plans and to his office as secretary and treasurer of the Louise Farming Company.

The "flying pastor" formerly was treasurer of the northwest district of the Christian and Missionary Alliance and the business manager of the St. Paul Bible Institute.

He will speak at the tabernacle, 2520 Memorial drive, at 7:30 o'clock on the evening programs and at 11 o'clock Easter Sunday morning and again at 7:30 o'clock Sunday night.

YOUTHS ADMIT SLAYING CHARGE

Two Are Sentenced for Killing Negro.

Two 17-year-old youths, Thomas Cleveland and Robert Westbrook, pleaded guilty to charges of involuntary manslaughter yesterday and were sentenced by Judge Hugh M. Dorsey to serve three years. They had been indicted for the murder of a Negro, Robert McCleod.

Meanwhile, a third youth charged with the killing, Harvey Whitfield, 16, was elected to trial on the charge. After selection of a jury and the introduction of several state witnesses, the case was recessed until this morning.

The three youths, according to the indictment, killed the Negro by hitting him with a rock February 9.

EINSTEIN MARKS HIS 61ST BIRTHDAY

Admits Difficulty in His Experiments.

PRINCETON, N. J., March 14.—(AP)—Scientist Albert Einstein observed his 61st birthday quietly today at his home.

Asked whether he had any plans to publish anything in the immediate future on additional progress in his unified field theory research, he replied:

"No, no. I'm having difficulty there."

Dr. Einstein has been searching for an all-embracing cosmic equation.

RIVAL DATES HIS GIRL, SO SWAIN BURNS CAR

PITTSBURGH, March 14.—(AP)—Judge John P. Egan told 26-year-old William J. Walters it was all right to be chivalrous, but burning the automobile of his rival was going too far.

Walters said he fired Milton Mellon's car because "he had taken my girl out." He added proudly that the young lady was still his, and that he also had turned his own automobile over to Mellon. "It is delightful in one way to know that chivalry is not entirely dead," commented Judge Egan in suspending sentence.

PERMANENT WAVES FOUND ON MUSKRATS

CAMBRIDGE, Md., March 14.—(AP)—Muskrats with "permanent waves"—something unheard of in the fur industry—have been caught on Maryland's eastern shore.

Dr. Herert L. Dozier, director of the federal fur animal field station here, reported the hair of the female was "distinctly more waved and in a manner quite similar to the permanent wave that is usually obtained only in a beauty shop."

EIGHT PLANES LOST WHEN HANGAR BURNS

NORRISTOWN, Pa., March 14.—(AP)—Eight airplanes were destroyed today when flames swept a hangar at the Pato airport, one mile east of here. The flames were followed by several explosions.

The fire is believed to have started when a compressed air tank operated by James R. De Long, 37, blew up. De Long suffered severe burns on his face, back and hands.

FOIL PLOT TO FREE AIDE OF DILLINGER

Plan to Liberate Russell Clark Thwarted.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, March 14.—(AP)—Thwarting of a plot to free one of the surviving leaders of the Dillinger gang was disclosed today by Warden Frank Henderson, of Ohio penitentiary.

Warden Henderson said Frank Benzowski, 33, engineered a "fantastic" escape plan, which involved kidnapping the warden in an effort to free Russell Clark, 41, and two other life termers. Clark is serving a life sentence for slaying Sheriff Jess Sarber, shot to death when John Dillinger's henchmen liberated him from the Lima, Ohio, jail.

Benzowski's plan, Henderson said, included the use of wooden pistols such as the ones two of Clark's accomplices fashioned in a daring effort to escape from the Ohio death row in 1934.

DOG STEALS PURSE. SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 14.—(AP)—Police are on the trail of something new in criminals—dog snatching. Miss Mary Moran complained that an Irish setter seized her handbag in its teeth, scampering away with a loot that included $18 in cash, spectacles, keys and a compact.
